New Bombings In England as Ireland Tries To Save 2 Men Britain Refuses to Grant Reprieves to I.R.A. Members SEEK CLEMENCY

High Commissioner in London Told to Appeal To Chamberlain

London — (U) — A new wave of bombings attributed to the Irish Republican army swept England today as the government of Ireland sought to stay the execution of two I. R. men in Birmingham tomorrow.

Explosions from balloon and acid dye bombs used previously by the I. R. A. in its campaign of terrorism shook London's crowded Euston railroad station, the Birmingham general post office, and the post office in Manchester.

As feeling ran high in Ireland after the British government's refusal last night to grant reprieves to the condemned men, John Dulaney, Ireland's high commissioner in London, was instructed to see Prime Minister Chamberlain today to press an appeal for clemency for the pair.

Convicted in Bombing
The two men, Peter Barnes and James Richards, are scheduled to be hanged tomorrow in Birmingham for their part in a bombing in Coventry last Aug. 25 in which five persons were killed.

The affair has caused more excitement and speculation in Ireland than any similar case in some years.

A postal investigation disclosed that the bomb which exploded in Birmingham was posted just after last night's announcement that Home Secretary Sir John Anderson would not interfere with the executions.

Today's Irish government appeal to Chamberlain came after many mass meetings in Ireland in recent days demanding reprieves. With refusal of these last night, the bombings followed today.

Would Offer "Proof"
Tom Barry, a Cork Irish Republican leader, telegraphed Prime Minister Eamon de Valera or Eire today asking him to request four-day reprieves to enable him to place before the home secretary in London "proof" that the men were innocent.

Special operatives of Scotland Yard and police throughout England were placed on the alert against the feared new bombing wave.

In blaming today's blasts on the I. R. A., police said that familiar "balloon-type" bombs had been used in the Euston blast. The bombs were in mail bags consigned to Birmingham.

Flames followed the Birmingham post office explosion, but were extinguished quickly.

The I. R. A. bombings began in January, 1939. The organization is outlawed in Ireland, opposed by the De Valera government because of its methods. The organization uses terrorism to fight Britain's ties with Ireland.

Family in Plea for Full Heil Pardon for Former 'Boy Sheriff'

Madison — (U) — The family of Lyle Wright, 40, former "boy sheriff" of Juneau county, who was convicted in 1933 of participation in a $4,000 robbery of the New Lisbon State bank, appealed yesterday for a full pardon.

His father, Vernon Wright, Sr., his brother, Eugene Wright, and his wife and two of their four children appeared before the state pardon board to ask for clemency.

They told the board, which took the application under advisement, that if Wright were released he could join his family and "live once more as a respectable citizen." His father, who owns several farms in Juneau county, said he would give him employment.

"I feel so deeply about this that it is hard for me to tell you just now I feel," Mrs. Wright said. "If you let him come home to me and his children you will have no reason to regret it. I've had to work since he went to prison seven years ago and my children are reaching the age where I'd like to stay home with them as other mothers do."

Clemency also was recommended by Edward T. Vinopal, former district attorney of Juneau county, who prosecuted Wright, and Circuit Judge Emory W. Crosby, who sentenced him.

Reopening of Yangtze
Is Assailed in Japan

Tokyo — (U) — Japan's decision to reopen the lower Yangtze river in China to third-power traffic was attacked bitterly in the Japanese parliament tonight as "obscure diplomacy" aimed at courting the favor of the United States.

Ichiro Kiyose, a leader of reactionary elements, in a fiery speech said that the government had announced the Yangtze step as an effort to improve the attitude of the United States toward Japan, and that the move had failed.

Kiyose advocated outright abandonment of the nine-power treaty of 1922 which pledged its signatories to respect the "open door" policy of foreign trade in China.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION TO CHICAGO

Happiest man at the meeting of the Democratic national committee in Washington was Mayor Edward J. Kelly (right) of Chicago, who voted and won the Democratic convention for Chicago. Flashing his brightest smile, the mayor is shown with national chairman James A. Farley just after the vote. Chicago agreed to put up $150,000 for the convention, including $20,000 in equipment and facilities.

Britain Agrees to Yield 9 Germans

Jap Foreign Minister 'Cannot Say Case Is Entirely Settled'

Tokyo — (U) — Great Britain has agreed to return nine of twenty German seamen seized from the Japanese liner Asama Maru, Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita announced today.

In connection with this compromise on an incident which Japanese had taken as an affront, Arita said Japanese steamship lines had been instructed to refuse to accept as passengers belligerent nationals who are "enlisted in military services, and those who may possibly be enlisted."

The foreign minister expressed belief that this would prevent another such incident but told the diet (parliament), "I cannot say that the case is entirely settled."

(The Shanghai office of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, one of the principal steamship companies of Japan and operators of the Asama Maru, announced today it would not accept as passengers Germans subject to military service.)

(The announcement said any Germans who had booked passage on N.Y.K. ships would be subject to investigation and possible rejection even though tickets already had been issued.)

Arita declared that Japan would continue to negotiate for the return of all 21 seamen. They were seized by a British cruiser Jan. 20 about 35 miles off Yokohama and interned at Hong Kong, British crown colony.

Arita told the diet, the Japanese government "cannot express satisfaction because the number of Germans to be delivered to Japanese authorities is only part of those whose extradition was demanded."

Locomotive Explosion Claims Third Victim

Manston, Wis. — (U) — Alvin Janz, 25, of Wausau, died in a hospital here today of burns and injuries suffered in the explosion of a locomotive boiler Sunday night.

The blast occurred in the engine pulling a northbound Milwaukee road freight train. Richard Goerick of Babcock, the engineer, and Otto Winters of Merrill, lead brakeman, were killed outright.

Janz, the fireman, suffered burns, crushed ribs and a leg fracture.

Unprecedented Bargains are Promised as Stores Prepare
For Heavy Dollar Day Crowds

Merchants of Appleton will offer shoppers of this vicinity extraordinary opportunities when the retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce holds another traditional Dollar day Thursday.

Careful preparation has been made for the influx of hundreds of shoppers for that day, brought to the city's business district by the combination of high quality goods and bargain prices.

The committee, headed by Wayne R. Jones, has planned thoroughly for the bargain event. Participating merchants are loading their counters with attractive, seasonal goods, of high quality and unquestioned utility. The new year, many business leaders believe, is going to be one of the best, if not the best, in the last decade. All these signs point toward the most successful Dollar day in the history of the event.

Not only will winter merchandise be offered at great savings, but merchants have brought in smart new goods of a wide variety for the shopping special. Fair weather is expected to add to the popularity of Dollar day.

Goods that are worth far more than $1 are brought down to that price to give shoppers unquestioned values and to carry out the spirit of Dollar day.

More than 60 stores will participate in the event. Participating stores will carry Dollar day streamers, clerks will wear special badges,

Washington — (U) — The scrap for the Democratic presidential nomination was on in earnest today after the party's national committee picked Chicago for the nominating convention and authorized Chairman James A. Farley to fix the date.

Third-term advocates hailed the choice by a single majority vote as an initial victory for President Roosevelt, who favored Chicago, over the forces of Vice President Garner, who was believed to have preferred San Francisco or Houston.

The chief executive, described by party leaders as wanting to have an important part in picking the nominee if he does not run himself, told reporters at Hyde Park, N. Y., while the national committee was in session here yesterday, that he was getting tired of answering third-term queries.

He added that when anything was to be said about the question, he would say it himself—at a time of his own choosing.

Charles A. Waver, committeeman from Ohio, told reporters that the turn to page 12 col. 3.

Murray Assails
Proposed Changes
S.W.O.C. Head Sees Effort to 'Reduce Workers
To Former Status'

Washington — (U) — Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee (S.W.O.C.), charged today that proposed amendments to the Wagner act "are motivated by a desire on the part of certain interests to reduce workers to their former status of weakness in pre-Wagner act days."

Testifying before the senate labor committee, Murray said he presented the viewpoint of John L. Lewis, CIO president, as well as his own.

The CIO's preference, the witness declared, is that no amendments be made to the act. However, if any are made, he said, they should strengthen penalties for employer violations.

"The proposed amendments to the act are unfair," the CIO vice president added. "They are unfair because they propose to turn the balance of power back to employers so they can force the workers back to their former status of weakness."

The senate committee became the third congressional group studying the Wagner act and its administration. The house labor committee and the special Smith committee are the other two.

Sentenced to 50 Years
For Attempted Robbery

Danville, Ill. — (U) — John F. Waldon, who contended he was riding "blind baggage" to obtain color for a short story, was convicted by a federal court jury late yesterday of participation in an attempted mail robbery near Onarga, Ill., last July 31.

He was sentenced to 50 years in prison and fined $20,000.

The jury, deliberating only 15 minutes, convicted Waldon, a 38-year-old former automobile salesman, on all seven counts of an indictment returned shortly after three men tried to seize a $56,000 pay roll destined for Chanute field army air school at Rantoul, Ill.

2nd Murder Warrant
Filed Against Devroy

Green Bay — (U) — District Attorney Cletus Chadek said today a warrant charging Joseph Devroy with first degree murder in the killing of his wife had been filed against Devroy with state prison authorities. Devroy was sentenced yesterday to life imprisonment after he had been found guilty of killing his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emily Kaiser. The second warrant will act as a detainer if Devroy is granted a pardon, Chadek said.

Young Slayer Is Near Death In Milwaukee

Shoots Himself After Killing Girl Who Rejected His Love
FIRED FIVE SHOTS

Stepfather Says Victim Had Appeared to be Afraid of Youth

Milwaukee — (U) — A 21-year-old youth, who Detective Captain Adolph Kraemer said shot himself in the head after slaying a girl who had rejected his love, lay near death at County Emergency hospital today.

Captain Kraemer said the youth, Harry S. Christiansen, son of a widely known lumberman, shot Mildred Beil, 22-year-old nurse, as she sat in a drug store booth with her roommate, also a nurse, yesterday afternoon.

After firing five shots into Miss Beil's body, the captain reported, Christiansen ejected the empty shells from his revolver, reloaded and fired a shot into his head.

Officers called to the scene declared that Christiansen, apparently possessing extraordinary vigor, did not lose consciousness until reaching the hospital, and that they were forced to restrain him until an ambulance arrived.

Miss Beil's stepfather, Louis Johnson of the suburban Wauwatosa police, said she had told him that Christiansen offered her a ring two weeks ago but that she had replied she did not love him.

The couple had been acquainted about two years, Johnson said. He reported that on several occasions she had seemed afraid of Christiansen, and that six months ago she told her mother the youth had threatened her.

Miss Beil's roommate, Marie Rose, 26, said they met Christiansen as they emerged from another store yesterday. He urged Miss Beil to go for a ride with him, the other girl added, but she declined and he walked rapidly away.

The nurses then went to the drug store where Miss Beil and Christiansen frequently had met. While they were sitting in a booth facing the door, the youth rushed in, ran straight to the booth and began firing, witnesses related.

Trade Treaty Funds
In one slash, the committee refused to allow more than $175,000 for operating the reciprocal trade system on the ground that congress had not yet authorized continuation of the program beyond June 12.

President Roosevelt asked $225,000.

Making small cuts in almost every activity, the committee allowed two increases beyond what the chief executive asked. One was an additional $41,000 beyond Mr. Roosevelt's request for the enforcement of anti-trust laws, making the total provided $1,250,000. The other was restoration of $30,000 of a $50,000 cut proposed by the budget bureau in the appropriation for patent office salaries, as compared with what was given this year.

California Chief
Refuses to Delay
Hearing for Bioff

Sacramento, Calif. — (U) — Governor Culbert L. Olson refused today to delay an extradition hearing for William Bioff, Los Angeles official, and set Feb. 13 for the hearing.

Counsel for Bioff, whose return to Illinois is sought for an uncompleted sentence after his conviction 18 years ago of pandering, argued for a continuance. Counsel contended that California and Illinois could exercise no jurisdiction until the disposition of income tax evasion charges now pending in federal court at Los Angeles. His trial on those charges is set for May 28.

Governor Olson said the conclusive factor in his findings that the state could exercise jurisdiction at this time was a statement filed by United States Attorney Ben Harrison of Los Angeles.

Wisconsin Milk Pool
Works to Settle Suits

Oconto — (U) — The Wisconsin Milk Pool, acting on the recommendation of Circuit Judge Arold F. Murphy, today began drafting a plan for settlement of a series of court actions in which the pool and the Lena farmers' group are involved.

The out-of-court agreements were proposed yesterday by Judge Murphy after a conference with attorneys for the pool and the Lena farmers' group. He suggested that the Wisconsin Milk Pool draft the plan and submit it to the court Friday.

The court, if it considered the proposal offered acceptable, then would recommend its adoption by the farmers' group.

House Group Again Slashes Fund Request

Reduces Total Asked for Three Departments And Federal Courts
CUTTING ALL UNITS

Senate Committee Votes To Reconsider O. K. for Rivers, Harbors Bill

Washington — (U) — The house appropriations committee cut $2,285,010 today from President Roosevelt's $109,664,010 request for expenses of the state, commerce and justice departments and the federal courts during the year beginning July 1.

"Every unit of the government must bear some proportion of the retrenchments," said the committee in submitting the revised figures. The reduction brought to $196,300,000 the amount slashed from presidential estimates in a half-dozen appropriation measures now before congress.

On the other side of the capitol, the senate commerce committee voted unanimously to reconsider its approval last year of a bill authorizing $407,355,600 in rivers and harbors and flood control projects.

Chairman Bailey (D-N. C.) predicted that the senate group would eliminate many projects from the measure which was approved by the house in May of last year carrying a total of only $83,848,100.

The $107,379,000 bill for the three departments and the courts, reported to the house for immediate consideration, contained funds for such activities as counter-espionage, anti-trust investigations and the 1940 census. The total was $3,442,859 below appropriations for the current year.

Deneen, Former Illinois Senator, Dies in Chicago

Succumbs to Heart Disease: Power in Illinois Politics for 20 Years

Chicago — (U) — Charles S. Deneen, former United States senator and a dominant figure in Illinois Republican politics for 20 years, died unexpectedly yesterday. He was 78.

He collapsed as the result of a heart ailment at his home a few hours after visiting a physician. Friends said he appeared to have been in excellent health except for a slight cold during the last week.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, at the Englewood Methodist church at Sixty-fourth street and Stewart avenue. Burial will be in Oak Woods cemetery.

He was survived by his widow, the former Binay May Maloney of Mount Carroll, Ill.; a son, Charles A. Deneen of Chicago, and three daughters, Mrs. Almond M. Blow, Tulsa, Okla.; Mrs. Carl Birdsell, Chicago, and Mrs. Thomas W. House, Jr., Houston, Texas.

Supported 'T. R.'
After serving in the Illinois general assembly and as state attorney of Cook county, Deneen won the gubernatorial nomination in the 1904 Republican state convention. His selection ended a 21-day convention deadlock.

Deneen supported Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican nomination for president in 1912 but refused to follow him into the Progressive party. The party schism cost Deneen a third term. He was defeated by Democrat Edward F. Dunne.

For 12 years thereafter Deneen devoted more time to his law practice than to politics but in 1924 he emerged to defeat Senator Medill McCormick in the primary and then won the senatorial election.

Senator McCormick's widow, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, checked Deneen's ambitions for a second term in the senate. Mrs. McCormick won the nomination but lost the election to James Hamilton Lewis.

Perhaps Deneen's most dramatic political battle was the 1928 primary campaign in which he vanquished the faction led by Governor Len Small. Mayor William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago and State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. The bitter fight was marked by the bombing of Deneen's home and the slaying of two Deneen followers.

11 Face U. S. Charges
Of Recruiting Men for
Spanish Loyalist Army

Detroit — (U) — The federal bureau of investigation today arrested 10 persons in Detroit and one in Milwaukee on a charge of recruiting soldiers in 1937 and 1938 for the Spanish republican army. Ten men and one woman were taken into custody.

They were indicted secretly Saturday by a federal grand jury before Judge Edward J. Moineau in United States district court here.

Announcement of the arrests was made by John C. Lehr, district attorney at Detroit. Lehr said the defendants were accused of violating Section 22, Title 18 of the United States code. It forbids citizens of the United States from recruiting for foreign countries, he said.

All the recruiting, Lehr announced, was in Detroit. Penalty for conviction, he said, is two years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Russian Attacks are Thrown Back After All-Day Battle.

Helsinki — (U) — Red army attacks heavily supported by artillery, using more than 100 tanks and continuing all day and lasting until midnight were reported officially today to have been thrown back by the Finns.

The battle, which lasted from morning until midnight, occurred on the Isthmus of Karelia between Hatjalahti and Summa, the Finnish army said in its daily communique.

The Finns said they destroyed 22 tanks, and that one Finnish position was attacked five times by the Russians.

The army reported that Finnish troops northeast of Lake Ladoga repulsed "continuous" attacks on the Pitkanen archipelago and on the shore of the lake, driving the enemy off with "several hundred killed."

Further north, near the Arctic circle, the Russians were repulsed near Markajarvi in the direction of Salla, the Finns said.

Pardons for 6 Men
Guilty of Conspiracy

Madison — (U) — Attorney Seth Pollard, of Waukegan, told the state pardon board today the testimony of his five clients, convicted of conspiracy to operate slot machines in Waukegan county, was largely responsible for the removal of three former county officers and "released" the situation.

Pollard appeared for Hubert Voss of Sullivan, Edward Woodruff and Joseph Jacques of Waukegan, A. Joseph Martin of Delaford, and Clarence Seider of Okauke, who applied for pardons from six-month house of correction terms given them July 19, 1938. A sixth applicant, Otto Schroeder, convicted and sentenced similarly, was represented by Attorney G. E. Vandercrook of Milwaukee.

None of them has yet served his sentence.

The officials Pollard referred to were former Municipal Judge David M. Evans, former Sheriff Walter Liskowitz and former District Attorney Herman R. Salen.

Skidmore Starts Life Prison Term

Antigo — (U) — James Blaine Skidmore, 54-year-old Pearson farmer, began serving a life term in Waupun state prison today for the slaying of Orville Nass, 20, of Mole Lake, last Nov. 5.

The life sentence, imposed yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph R. McCarthy, was the first of its kind meted out by the 31-year-old jurist since he took office Jan. 1.

Skidmore was convicted of first degree murder last Thursday after a trial in which he testified that he shot Nass, friend of Skidmore's daughter, in self-defense.

Judge McCarthy also passed sentence on two men for the killing last July of an elderly lumberjack, William Poland, alias Willie Cook, 31, of Lily, pleaded guilty to third degree murder and was sentenced to seven to fourteen years imprisonment. The victim, known locally as John Smith but identified by federal officials as William Warnick, Jr., was found bludgeoned to death near his shack along the Wolf river.

Burnell Wilkerson, 18-year-old farm youth from Sikeston, Mo., who declared that Poland struck the woodsman with a baseball bat, pleaded guilty to fourth degree manslaughter. Wilkerson received a suspended sentence of one year to eighteen months in the state reformatory and was placed on parole.

Sheriff Elmer Frey previously had quoted the youth as saying that he and Poland had hoped to find a fortune which Smith was reputed to have buried near his shack.

Spanish Loyalist Army

Detroit — (U) — The federal bureau of investigation today arrested 10 persons in Detroit and one in Milwaukee on a charge of recruiting soldiers in 1937 and 1938 for the Spanish republican army. Ten men and one woman were taken into custody.

They were indicted secretly Saturday by a federal grand jury before Judge Edward J. Moineau in United States district court here.

Announcement of the arrests was made by John C. Lehr, district attorney at Detroit. Lehr said the defendants were accused of violating Section 22, Title 18 of the United States code. It forbids citizens of the United States from recruiting for foreign countries, he said.

All the recruiting, Lehr announced, was in Detroit. Penalty for conviction, he said, is two years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Russian Attacks are Thrown Back After All-Day Battle.

Helsinki — (U) — Red army attacks heavily supported by artillery, using more than 100 tanks and continuing all day and lasting until midnight were reported officially today to have been thrown back by the Finns.

The battle, which lasted from morning until midnight, occurred on the Isthmus of Karelia between Hatjalahti and Summa, the Finnish army said in its daily communique.

The Finns said they destroyed 22 tanks, and that one Finnish position was attacked five times by the Russians.

The army reported that Finnish troops northeast of Lake Ladoga repulsed "continuous" attacks on the Pitkanen archipelago and on the shore of the lake, driving the enemy off with "several hundred killed."

Further north, near the Arctic circle, the Russians were repulsed near Markajarvi in the direction of Salla, the Finns said.

Attorneys Seeking
Pardons for 6 Men
Guilty of Conspiracy

Madison — (U) — Attorney Seth Pollard, of Waukegan, told the state pardon board today the testimony of his five clients, convicted of conspiracy to operate slot machines in Waukegan county, was largely responsible for the removal of three former county officers and "released" the situation.

Pollard appeared for Hubert Voss of Sullivan, Edward Woodruff and Joseph Jacques of Waukegan, A. Joseph Martin of Delaford, and Clarence Seider of Okauke, who applied for pardons from six-month house of correction terms given them July 19, 1938. A sixth applicant, Otto Schroeder, convicted and sentenced similarly, was represented by Attorney G. E. Vandercrook of Milwaukee.

None of them has yet served his sentence.

The officials Pollard referred to were former Municipal Judge David M. Evans, former Sheriff Walter Liskowitz and former District Attorney Herman R. Salen.

Sentence Is First of Its Kind Imposed by Circuit
Judge McCarthy

Antigo — (U) — James Blaine Skidmore, 54-year-old Pearson farmer, began serving a life term in Waupun state prison today for the slaying of Orville Nass, 20, of Mole Lake, last Nov. 5.

The life sentence, imposed yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph R. McCarthy, was the first of its kind meted out by the 31-year-old jurist since he took office Jan. 1.

Skidmore was convicted of first degree murder last Thursday after a trial in which he testified that he shot Nass, friend of Skidmore's daughter, in self-defense.

Judge McCarthy also passed sentence on two men for the killing last July of an elderly lumberjack, William Poland, alias Willie Cook, 31, of Lily, pleaded guilty to third degree murder and was sentenced to seven to fourteen years imprisonment. The victim, known locally as John Smith but identified by federal officials as William Warnick, Jr., was found bludgeoned to death near his shack along the Wolf river.

Burnell Wilkerson, 18-year-old farm youth from Sikeston, Mo., who declared that Poland struck the woodsman with a baseball bat, pleaded guilty to fourth degree manslaughter. Wilkerson received a suspended sentence of one year to eighteen months in the state reformatory and was placed on parole.

Sheriff Elmer Frey previously had quoted the youth as saying that he and Poland had hoped to find a fortune which Smith was reputed to have buried near his shack.

Canadian Vessel Reported Sunk; Details Lacking

Britain and France Centering War on Battles Over Food Supplies

London.—Loss of a big Canadian freighter by torpedoing was reported today as Great Britain and France shaped their national structures for an unrelenting battle of bread and meat this spring.

The admiralty informed officials of the Canadian Pacific Steamship company that its $374-ton Beaver, of London registry, had been sunk, but gave no details.

The authoritative British Press association said the ship, built in 1928 and used in fast freight service between Canada and the United Kingdom, was last reported to have been torpedoed off the southern coast of Ireland.

Another merchant ship was reported to have rescued 76 of the crew of the Beaver, which was the sinking occurred yesterday.

The sinking pointed up the opinion of many experts that the war must be the war of the sea lanes, and that the solution lies in the weapon which eventually will determine the victor.

Red Cross Suggests Rules to Follow to Avoid Ice Accidents

The Outagamie county chapter of the American Red Cross today released a number of ice skating rules to avoid accidents. The list was compiled by Harold F. Enlows, national director of Red Cross first aid.

Following are his suggestions: Skate only at places where the ice has been carefully tested and found to be strong enough to hold skaters. Never skate alone. If an accident should occur, no assistance would be available.

Never skate at night in a place that is not lighted. Breaks or other imperfections are too hard to see and may result in a serious accident.

Never attempt a rescue without a ladder, plank or tree limb. These should be placed on the ice near the skater so the rescuer may crawl out, distributing his weight over the greatest area. If a rope is available and the victim's hands are too numb to grasp it, the rescuer should first tie it securely to something on the shore before going after the victim. Then if the ice should break through, it is still possible to pull oneself and the victim ashore.

Home Influences Are Paramount in Problems of Crime

Judge Thomas H. Ryan Is Speaker at Lions Club Meeting

Municipal Judge Thomas H. Ryan said before the Appleton Lions club yesterday that poor home environment is the principal cause of crime among young people and that "no parents have the right to deny their children proper education and good influences and still buy luxuries for themselves."

Appearing at the club's noon luncheon in the Conway hotel, he said that what brings a judge worries are not the contested cases, where testimony reveals circumstances and background, but outright pleas of guilt.

"When a judge hears a direct plea of guilty, he has had little chance to know the background of the case, to find out why the person committed the crime and if there are any extenuating circumstances," Judge Ryan said. "It is for this reason that cases are sometimes taken under advisement and a study of these factors made."

He told the club he is "convinced that the home is of greatest importance in the crime picture and that complete development, morally and mentally, of children is possible only when the parents give them the advantages of discipline and education."

Judge Ryan quoted figures compiled by the federal bureau of investigation showing that 75 percent of the criminals in America are under 25 years of age and that the average age is 19.

"A criminal's simple act doesn't spend itself on the original victim but continues on and on," the judge remarked in speaking of the tremendous and tragic effect that one criminal act can have.

He said it is "the exception when crime comes from a good home and when it does, it usually can be handled."

He cited regular church attendance as being a strengthening force in the development of character in young people and said that "this nation can endure only if its foundations are built on religion."

Wills Paint Plant To 15 Employees

Manufacturer Carries Out Policies He Fostered During Life

Amherst, Pa.—Enriched by the millions left by their paint-manufacturer boss, the key employees of J. Harvey Gravelly plan to carry on the traditions and business policies he fostered.

The 15 who were bequeathed the bulk of Gravelly's $3,000,000 estate disclosed through a spokesman that there would be no change in the operation of the American Chemical Paint company plant here.

Grateful for the final generous gesture of the man who once Christened gave his workers $100,000 to pay off their debts, the legatees said they intended to establish a permanent memorial for him.

Standing to benefit handsomely even after estate and inheritance taxes reduce the fortune, the employees, most of whom have large families, indicated the windfall would alter the course of their lives.

"I'm going to send my sons to college," said Frank Scardino after terms of Gravelly's will were announced yesterday.

"My wife and I always wanted to travel," remarked another.

Gravelly, who died Dec. 8 at the age of 59, wrote that it was his purpose to place control and ownership of the plant in the hands of his business associates and employees.

The stock was placed in trust for the 15 employees for 10 years. After that they will own it outright.

Tavernkeepers Told To Beware of Abuses

Madison.—John W. Roach, chief of the state beverage tax division, told the Dane County Tavernkeepers association last night that the tavern industry "must divorce itself completely from social abuses and racketeering."

"Dane county, I understand, particularly free of gambling, racketeering and houses of ill-fame," Roach said. "However, there are some counties of the state where these evils have been permitted to encroach upon the industry."

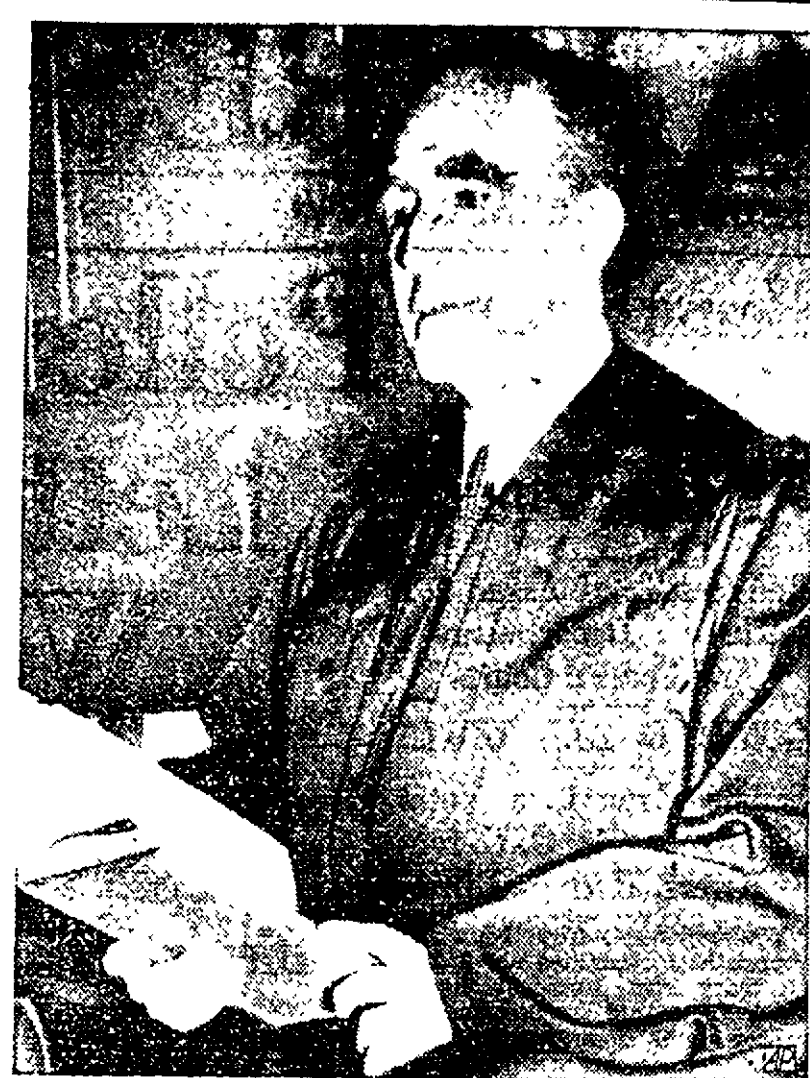

"If tavernkeepers are to maintain high standards, they must eliminate themselves from all connection with abuses such as come-or-girls, gambling and various forms of racketeering which bring disrepute to a legitimate business."

Two Women Watch Burglars: Phone Police Next Day

They reported that they tried to telephone the owner of the store being robbed, but were unable to arouse him. The robberies netted $33.

Churchill Says Hitler Missed Boat When He Didn't Launch Air Attack at War's Outset

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York.—The right honorable Winston Churchill, Britain's first lord of the admiralty, claims that Herr Hitler missed the boat (if any) when he didn't undertake a blitzkrieg with his air fleet at the outset of the war.

The idea, of course, is that where the allies weren't ready for action five months ago, they are all set today.

Mr. Churchill is England's heavy-weight oratorical champion, and in making this statement he undoubtedly was talking in part for the purpose, as the Britons put it, of "bucking up" the morale of the general public. We mustn't overlook that. Still, the first lord by implication has touched a question which one hears with increasing frequency: Has Germany delayed so long in making a major offensive of some sort that it has indeed missed the boat and lost any chance to win the war? Or are the nazis out-smarting the enemy, with something up their sleeve?

Allies Weren't Ready
It probably is true that the early stages of the war presented the best chance for a successful attack. Certainly neither England nor France was ready for war in the air on a large scale. As Churchill put it in his speech, the nearly five months of conflict without the blitzkrieg from the skies have been a "Godsend to us." Germany was ready and the allies weren't.

Still, I take it that Hitler was pursuing what looked like a good line of strategy from his standpoint—an effort to get peace without further conflict. By the time the juice was squeezed out of that lemon, the Anglo-French pair had made great strides in preparations, and bad weather was closing in.

During this five-month period there have been a lot of far-reaching developments. Here are some of them:

The allies have swept the seas of German commercial shipping, and established a blockade which has virtually cut off the nazi ocean-borne supplies.

The defective allied air-defenses have been greatly strengthened, and the comparatively inferior air-fleets have been increased until the French and British claim they themselves are prepared to take the offensive.

Britain has transported a great and well-equipped expeditionary force to the fighting line in France.

Mass Big Army
The allies have massed a big army in the near east, ready for attack or defense in the zone of Hitler's left wing.

The Balkan states have largely slipped under the politico-economic control under which Germany depended to dominate southeastern Europe, but is not only rich in supplies but is of vast strategic importance. The allied influence here has steadily increased.

Germany has banked on the Balkans, Poland and Russia to replace supplies cut off by the blockade. That has been disappointing all around. The allies are buying many Balkan products to keep them from the nazis. The Russian and Polish resources will have to be developed over a long period before they will benefit Germany much.

Naxidom is rapidly approaching the point where it will be absolutely necessary for it to tap a new and large source of supplies. Also the reich is in bad financial and economic condition.

All these circumstances, coupled with the fact that the allies have far greater resources in all departments, leads most neutral military and economic experts to say that on paper the Anglo-French combination has the advantage at this moment. However, many observers expect Germany to assume the long-delayed initiative shortly. The good weather, any bringing a heavy offensive by air, especially against Britain.

But few believe that the war can be won in the air alone. So where do we go after that? Well, it strikes me that the nazis may be out to beat the allies at their own game. Their purpose is to cause a break in the morale of the German people, and thus bring about a revolt against the nazi regime. The Germans may be trying to smash the morale on the allied side.

Don't forget that Hitler's organization has been built from the very start to produce the perfect war machine. It's a fair guess that he figures this machine may stand more punishment than will those of the allies, and that there is as much chance of their cracking up as there is of trouble in the fatterland.

Anyway, the war of nerves and economic stress proceeds on all fronts. To this the nazis likely will add their promised "blood bath" from the air. Then maybe we shall see.

Garner Approves Name on Ticket

Thanks Wisconsin for Following "Democratic Procedure"

Washington.—(P)—Vice President John N. Garner, informed that a complete slate of delegates supporting him for the Democratic presidential nomination would be entered in the Wisconsin preferential primary, expressed his thanks yesterday.

In a telegram to Co-chairman John S. Sloum and William R. Callahan of the Wisconsin Garner for President club, Garner said: "This is in keeping with my public statement in which I said I would accept the nomination. In that statement, I expressed the opinion that the people should decide and that the candidate should be selected at primaries and conventions as provided by law."

"I am glad to know that Wisconsin Democrats propose to follow this democratic procedure."

800 Republicans Attend Michigan Lincoln Dinner

Plymouth, Mich.—Eight hundred Michigan Republicans smothered their own factional differences beneath generous ladlings of bison stew and denounced the new deal last night in the first of a series of Lincoln dinners.

Congressman Paul W. Shafer of Battle Creek, a member of the house committee on military affairs, charged President Roosevelt was "an internationalist leading the nation along the high road to war."

Life said nothing of the feuds between his own party in Michigan.

James F. Thompson, chairman of the state central committee, outlined a program for the Republican party to work for in Michigan. Thompson did not mention his own possible candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination, however, nor did he repeat previous criticism of Governor Dickinson's administration.

Parties Playing Game on Setting Convention Dates

Each Waiting for the Other to Make the First Move, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington.—The Democratic National committee and the Republican National committee are playing hide and seek with each other. The Democrats want to hold their national convention after the Republicans have held theirs. The Republicans want to wait and see whether President Roosevelt is drafted for a third term.

The first move in the game was an authorization by the Democratic National committee to let Chairman James A. Farley select the date. He immediately announced that the date will be selected the moment the Republicans have fixed a date.

The advantage in this by-play is with the Democrats for they obviously want a late convention and a short campaign because this will curtail the time of their opposition to make a case.

The Republicans, on the other hand, can easily fix a convention date, pick their candidate and postpone the making of a platform until after the Democrats have met. For, if the Democrats draft President Roosevelt, the whole Republican platform will be built around the idea of a dictatorship. All other issues will fade into insignificance.

The question of who shall be named by the Republicans to head the ticket is not at all related to what the Democrats do. From some standpoints, it would be wiser for the Republicans to select their candidate and begin to organize their campaign in June, irrespective of what the Democrats may do later. It's the platform and the emphasis which may have to be given the third term issue that may cause the Republicans embarrassment if the Democratic convention is held too long after the Republican convocation.

Mayor Hague of Jersey City, one of the principal Democratic spokesmen at the national committee meeting here this week, thinks the convention should be held in September.

Opposition Slate For Primary Race Believed Forming

Alderman McGillan Mentioned for Mayor, A. C. Rule for Clerk

Although candidates for city posts are slow in announcing themselves and election talk is strictly speculative, rumor has it that an opposition slate is forming and will be announced soon.

Politicians apparently are playing a waiting game, for opposition has developed in only two races to date, for the mayor's post and in the aldermanic race in the Twelfth ward.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Carl J. Becker, city clerk, have not announced as yet that they will seek reelection in the primary, March 12. Joseph DeBruin, Appleton painter, will be a candidate for the mayor's post and Walter Nissen will oppose Alderman Knuijt, incumbent alderman in the Twelfth ward.

Alderman McGillan, whose council term does not end until 1941 took out 18 blank nomination papers last week and yesterday and it is believed by those on the inside that he will be a candidate for mayor.

Building Slumps During January; Estimate $20,298

Construction work got off to a slow start in Appleton last month with estimated building totaling only $20,298, less than one third the amount estimated in January a year ago, according to the monthly report of John A. Pierre, building inspector.

Pierre said that he has the plans for a number of major projects and many smaller ones but the builders are waiting for better building weather. He expects a record February estimate, he said.

Estimated building in January a year ago was $63,100 compared to this year's total of $20,298. In December permits for estimated building totaling $34,880 were granted.

Home building, however, was higher in value this January. The inspector granted one permit for a home estimated at $12,000, compared to one estimated at $3,500 in January. In December, six permits for homes valued at $25,000 were granted.

Remodeling last month was estimated at $1,900 compared to $58,000 in January, 1939 and $5,130 in December last year. Miscellaneous permits numbered eight for building estimated at $6,398 last month.

The Twelfth ward was first in building last month with construction estimated at $12,600. Second high was the Tenth ward with building estimated at $4,948 and Third was the Eighth ward with building valued at $1,650.

Kaukauna — High school cagers are preparing this week to invade St. Mary's of Menasha Friday evening, intending to gain revenge for the most decisive defeat the Kaws have suffered this season, a 30 to 14 beating here in December. Conference competition will be resumed Tuesday with a contest at Menasha against the Bluejays, whom the Kaws defeated here, 35 to 18.

Kaukauna is now on the crest of its best winning streak, three games, and must be given at least an even chance against the high scoring Zephyrs. In the last three games, against Neenah, Clintonville and DePere, Coach Krumm's men have averaged 45 points a game.

Still in Race

Kaukauna still has a chance to win or tie for the Northeastern conference title. Winning depends on both Neenah and Shawano dropping two more games and Kaukauna going on without a loss. A tie for the top is more within reach, this coming about if Neenah loses at Shawano, Shawano loses at New London, and Kaukauna defeats New London and Shawano on the local floor.

This week Krumm's men will work on stopping St. Mary's fast break, which caught them un-awares in the early season defeat. Stopping Bill Reese, who last week scored 36 points in one game, will be the big problem. The Zephyrs will have no easy task guarding the Kaws, who have hit their scoring stride with any of the regulars likely to have a big night.

Bill Alger ran his total points to 115 by scoring 12 against West DePere, and heads the list of Kaw scorers, followed by Karl Giordana 79, Joe Bloch 76, Don Bisek 72, Junior Swedberg 52, Bill Tessen 47, Willis Riquette 45, Calvin Spice 1, Byron Befort 1. In 14 games the Kaws have won 8 and lost 6, scoring 420 points to opponents' 337.

Maybe Americans are Getting Too Smart for Their Own Good

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Someone should come out with a fearless declaration that there is altogether too much education in the United States, but I will not be the patsy, because the one who does will be assaulted by a dozen universities, normal schools and A. and M.'s, a brick at a time, and I am still mending my hide where I recently caught the mash notes of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's love lobby. I may say, incidentally, that although I received many letters beginning "Dear Sir: You cur," in the era of wonderful nonsense and the million dollar gate, nothing in my previous experience equaled this pouring of the Christian spirit in volume of vituperative power. However, to anyone who is reckless enough to state this proposition I offer some suggestions, the first being that although the American people are, at a rough estimate, ten times as educated today as they were in 1900, they are also ten times as miserable, or, anyway, think they are, which amounts to the same thing. College education, like oranges, evening clothes and vacations with pay, was a rarity then, and the young man or woman who went away to school was given a notice in the home-town papers and shunned thereafter by his or her old playmates as one who was somehow queer. The national standard of dumbness was up around 85, and it may be observed that those who speak so longingly of the opportunities which existed 40 years ago and before ignore the fact that most of the opportunities were seized and improved by persons who were thoroughly uneducated. Education began to sweep the land in the first decade of this century, and as learning has risen higher and higher the happiness of the people has declined, which may mean that ignorance really is bliss, after all. At the same time, the divorce rate has risen amazingly, indicating that this amazingly, which was expected to make for harmony, has not paid out in results, if the present dissatisfaction with American life is considered.

Entertainment and travel, too, are commonplace now by contrast with an easily remembered day when a magic lantern to town show was a gala event in the hard but generally sufficient life of the American small town, when city people saw a stock company production two or three times a year and the next town or Coney Island was a long way off.

It's a Good Thing the Work Was Done Early

If people were miserable then they were too dumb to know it, and certainly they had every right to feel miserable on their low wages for long hours and with no prospect of pension or job security. And if the same conditions prevailed today the same pay, hours and conditions for the regularly employed and the lack of comforts and luxuries, the enlightened, educated race of Americans would either collapse from self-pity or commit revolution against themselves. It is a good thing they got the hard work done before they got educated. Otherwise it never would have been done.

Present plans for the care, feeding and education of youth have raised the age limit of youth to 25 years. Of course it is true that a scholar never ceases to be a student, but there is no process of selection, and none seems to be possible under the American system if this assistance is to be a public service. The numbskull has the same right as the genius to keep himself aloof from the practical job of life, and in a rough way, this means that 25 is to be the economic age of consent. If that be the case, and if men and women are middle-aged and barely employable at 40, and all through at 50, it seems scarcely worth thither to fetch up any more Americans. There aren't enough man-hours in a man in 15 years of work at the 40-hour or 30-hour week, and 10 years more at reduced speed, to lay up enough credit to carry his get on the public rolls to the age of 25 and to provide for the retirement of himself and wife.

The cost of production, taking the problem as a whole, is so vast that the country might ask itself whether it wouldn't be better to spend the money for groceries, and the quality of this education has been severely criticized by many of the educators themselves. The Americans are, per capita, in both costs and examination marks, the most educated people on earth, but they were never so complaining and discontented in the history of the country. Looking at the figures in the tables, my explanation is that we are suffering from a very bad case of the smarts.

Lenten Services Begin This Week In All Churches

Special Programs Will Continue Through 40-Day Period

Churches, both Catholic and Protestant, begin this week the observance of the lent season, six weeks of prayer and penance leading up to the feast of Easter. Commemorating as it does the 40 days of fast and prayer of Jesus Christ, prior to his passion and death, it is a period of the greatest solemnity.

The lenten season will be observed in St. Matthew Lutheran church with special English service every Tuesday, at which the Rev. St. Peter Johnson, pastor, will exchange pulpits with the Rev. Paul Bergmann, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Menasha, on alternate weeks. The services will be on the seven last words of Christ spoken from the cross. The first service will be held Thursday night with Pastor Bergmann preaching on "Father Forgive Them for They Know Not What They Do." For Johnson will speak the following Thursday on "Verily I Say Unto Thee, Today Shall Thou Be With Me in Paradise."

German services during lent will be held every Wednesday night at St. Matthew church. On Ash Wednesday there will be a German communion service, and German services will continue each Wednesday until Holy Week when they will be postponed to Maundy Thursday evening with the celebration of holy communion.

St. Paul Lutheran church will have German services at 7:30 each Wednesday night during lent and English every Thursday night. The Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor, will preach on the seven last words. The last service on Good Friday will take the place of the one on the Wednesday of holy week.

A communion service at 8 o'clock Ash Wednesday night will start off the lenten season for Trinity English Lutheran church which this week is celebration of its silver jubilee. The sermon by the Rev. Air Hostess to Give Vocational Address At Appleton School

Air hostesses and their work will be discussed by Marjorie Rose Gilroy, stewardess for the American airlines at the lyceum program of Appleton high school Wednesday afternoon. The title of Miss Gilroy's address will be "America Flies."

Miss Gilroy will outline the increasing importance of aviation for her audience in business, hospitalization and recreation. America, she contends, is definitely looking into the field of aviation for new ways to make a livelihood. The speaker is a registered nurse, a graduate of Mercy hospital, Davenport, Iowa. After her period of training she was given a regular position and since has flown some 250,000 miles, most of them in passenger "flagships" between Chicago and New York.

In the vocational phase of her speech Miss Gilroy explains that her work is no job for a glamor girl. It is important to know that with many girls on the waiting lists the airlines still have difficulty in securing the right girls for the service. Reliability and willingness to accept responsibility are the most necessary qualifications.

"Love" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage was taken from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every trial of our faith in God makes us stronger. Love inspires, illumines, designates and leads the way. Right motives give pinions to thought and strength and freedom to speech and action. Love is priestess at the altar of truth. Human hate has no legitimate mandate and no kingdom. Love is enthroned."

Father Hubbard Says Alaska Is 'Last Frontier'

Claims Climate of Country Is Milder Than In Wisconsin

Neenah—Declaring that Alaska is the "last frontier," Father Bernard R. Hubbard, "The Glacier Priest," said in a talk at the noon meeting of the Neenah Lions club Monday noon at the Valley Inn, that the last stand for civilization before it returns to Asia is Alaska.

The priest—volcanologist—geologist explained: "Asia was the cradle of civilization when Europe consisted of a few wild tribes, but paganism ran through Asia and civilization shifted to Europe when America was composed of only wild Indian tribes. Then the same thing happened in Europe as in Asia and civilization crossed the Atlantic to America. Eventually, civilization will return to Asia, but before it does, it will shift to Alaska. This, of course, will not be in our time."

Under the auspices of the Lions club, Father Hubbard, who plans to conduct his fourteenth Alaskan expedition in May, gave three performances at the Embassy theater Monday.

Mild Climate

There are 60,000 people in Alaska, according to the priest, and Alaska could support 60,000,000 without diminishing its resources.

He pointed out that Alaska is 104 times the size of Wisconsin and its climate is milder than Wisconsin, contrary to popular belief, and he criticized those who have publicized Alaska as a cold country.

The priest said, "If the human race had started in Alaska instead of Asia, Alaska today would be the most powerful nation in the world," and he listed the vast amount of resources in the northern territory.

Stating that Alaska is an ideal place in which to live, Father Hubbard said that in northern parts the temperature in summer raises as high as 120 degrees in the sun and 90 degrees in the shade and in southern parts, it never reaches zero. He said that Alaska is an ideal farming and dairying country, and that the government colony experiment was a success because it proved that. He pointed out that those farmers coming from the Midwest with intentions to make a home instead of to see the sights, as some did, have proved that Alaska is ideal for farming. Some have profited more than $1,000 a year on their 40-acre farms.

Most Negro Voters Still are Democratic; Some Drift to GOP

By Institute of Public Opinion Princeton, N. J. — In the last Presidential election the great majority of those negroes who voted — principally in Northern communities — turned their backs on the party of Abraham Lincoln to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt. As the Republican party gathers in a series of Lincoln day dinners across the nation next week, one of the problems that will not be overlooked is the problem of winning the negro vote back again. How much chance do the Republicans have?

While it is still a long way until election day, the recent surveys of the American Institute of Public Opinion show:

1. That the average negro voter is still anxious to see the Democrats win in 1940.
2. But that if the Presidential election were held today the Republican candidate might gather a larger share of the colored vote than Governor Landon did in 1936.

HITLER ON THE ROSTRUM

Nothing new was said by Adolf Hitler on the 7th anniversary of the Nazis coming to power but an old idea that bears repeating was repeated. It should not be lost to sight. It carries great kernels of truth.

In epitome it is this:
"For a long time Germany, keeping in line with the Versailles treaty, begged and entreated her western neighbors for justice. After all these entreaties proved themselves to be in vain—then, and only then did National Socialism originate and grow."

Hitler had no purpose of accusing France and England of making him great and powerful but certainly they, and largely alone, have done so. And while they now talk of the Golden Rule and the Golden Age they will usher in after the people and their armies sweep the Nazis from power it may not be considered either treason or a sympathy with Berlin to remind the world that precisely the same promises were made in World War No. 1 and laughed to scorn when the time arrived to live up to them.

A major trouble is that the people of a nation are satisfied to look ahead only to the freckle on their nose-tips. And leaders, who glow too often in the dim, fire-fly light that suffices for the multitude, care not to lift their eyes for a longer view even if their optics are capable of looking further.

Thus Hitler accuses England of striving for the last 300 years to prevent European unity. He might have added that it is a sacred national principle in France to circumvent the coming together of the Teutonic peoples into one nation. These French and English aims appear baneful and vicious until their outlines are somewhat softened by inquiries into the purposes that have directed the formation of these policies. France and England have opposed a united Germany out of fear for their own safety. It may be an unjust fear or an exaggerated one but it exists nonetheless. It is kin to the American fear that gave birth to the Monroe Doctrine.

Assuredly lasting peace in Europe is unattainable unless and until conditions that have produced Hitler and dictatorship in a highly intelligent nation can be removed. Purring promises of sweetness and light such as are poured forth by London are flat and empty unless translated into specific and detailed offers. When English leaders answer Laborite queries in the Commons by saying their only war aim at present is "to win the war" or to "erase Hitlerism from Europe" they are sidestepping the issue. They are repeating a formula employed for ages to brush aside a possible means of obtaining peace that may be enduring, that is a peace without victory, which would necessitate a compromise by all.

Why should not Chamberlain now publicly detail what he expects to privately enforce if Germany is crushed? Why not say that peace is possible if Hitler and the Nazi form of tyranny go? What is there about proposing today the means and methods of reestablishing Poland and Bohemia? Is there any genuine reason for the vague attitude prevailing at London and Paris except to be able to repeat Versailles?

And then another Hitler and another war in 1960.

A.F.L. GIVES "GO" SIGN BUT—

Certainly sincere was the head of the American Federation of Labor when he addressed the convention at Miami:

"Those in authority (president and congress) should give business the 'go' sign. Government interference must stop. Remove the fear and apprehension in industry caused by not knowing where the administration's next blow is going to fall.

"Then and only then can we cut down our terrific unemployment. The breathing spell, the word that the sword is not to fall again, must be given. The threat of further invasion of industry must dissolve."

But a pointed question is pertinent, in fact is crowding into the controversy so fitfully it cannot be avoided. Who is going to accept the word of those whose principle reputation in the world is for breaking their most solemnly given and oft repeated promises?

Upon this critical proposition Mr. Green was silent. He hopes the past may be forgotten and forgiven. So do we but that is easier said than done.

Congress may be fairly well relied upon although it has its well defined weaknesses. The president is simply unpredictable. He may give his word but he cannot alter his disposition. He is as dependable as mercury. Those familiar with his undisputed record and still satisfied to take his specific promise are as credulous as a hungry perch and just about as smart.

DEMOCRACY WITH RESERVATIONS

In the last state election the Democratic state ticket attracted less than 80,000 votes. Since it is obvious to anybody who has glanced over the election returns in previous elections that there are in Wisconsin more Democrats than that figure implies, it was apparent that the Democrats left home and flocked to other banners. The Democratic party organization was dead or dying. It was no longer a force in state affairs under its own colors. It was just that the men at the top who claimed the credit during its hey-day should also get the blame for its failure a few years later.

It was comparatively easy, therefore, for a group of men to gain sympathy and support in a condemnation of party leadership and a decision to rebuild. Even many independent voters welcomed the effort to restore the party to virility, to enable it again to enjoy a healthy participation in state affairs, to contribute to state policy and political thought. Ours is a party system. When parties die a part of our government organization goes with them.

The new leadership made a splendid, natural progress for six months—until a week ago it got tangled up and made the whole movement appear ridiculous through the nomination of delegate candidates to the Democratic national convention next summer.

It is proper enough that the New Dealers pledge their support for the father of the New Deal. Since he has not renounced it, his local supporters can't be blamed for assuming he wants a third term, or for supporting him if they want to do so. But when they bind themselves through a written pledge to support not only the president, but the unnamed candidate of his choice if he declines to run, they are betraying the democratic principles which they hailed as their primary objective when they bolted from the regular party moorings last year.

They are helping the people of Wisconsin a blank check and asking for an endorsement.

FROM PAPER TO REALITY

In the past, the appropriation requests of the army and the navy have been comparatively modest and Congress has been fairly generous about granting them. One reason for congressional leniency was that the mere approval of an appropriation for military purposes did not mean necessarily that the money actually would be spent. Always, in peacetime until now, the army has been much larger and the navy much greater on paper than in reality.

The current wars in the rest of the world and the uncertainty over their outcome have changed the situation. The branches of national defense are proclaiming their deficiencies and insisting that they be corrected as rapidly as possible. Secretary of War Woodring says the army needs $300,000,000 to supply necessary ordnance and other equipment. The army bill before Congress aims at an immediate force of 462,000, including 227,000 regulars and 235,000 National Guardsmen, and at an ultimate numerical strength of 750,000.

The navy is asking appropriations which would provide a fleet of 145 warships by 1945, or a total of $2,276,000,000 including the current Vinson expansion bill of $1,300,000,000. In addition to the 68 ships already authorized, the navy wants authority to begin construction on 77 others.

Comparatively and numerically speaking the demands are not excessive. Even with a fleet of 145 warships, Great Britain's would be larger. And an army of 750,000 would compare to Sweden's 850,000 and the quickly conquered Czechoslovakia force of 1,800,000. For a nation of this population and territory, neither force would be out of proportion.

However, the question which makes Congress hesitate is that the requested appropriations would increase army costs 200 per cent and navy costs 300 per cent. Taxpayers, especially those living in the interior of the country where sensitivity to foreign perils is not so pronounced as along the coasts, will naturally ask whether such increases are necessary at this time. That is perhaps the most momentous and difficult question that Congress will have to decide in this session. It deserves sympathy for the job.

SUNLESS DAYS

After a week of sunless days, gold beans
Shine on the light-starved field. In the cold earth.

The bulbs are visited by the first dreams
Of April, certain now of their rebirth.

After the soul is darkened by much grief,
The light of joy arises. Seeds of hope
Quickened, and on the sower bough a leaf
Trembles as tardy sunlight glides the slope.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—The disclosure that the late Senator Borah left $207,000 in currency and government bonds in a safe deposit box literally floored his Senate intimates. For years they had known him as a poor man who on more than one occasion had bemoaned his failure to make money in private law practice, as other members of Congress did.

One of these instances occurred last spring just before the Washington visit of the British King and Queen. Borah was in the Republican cloakroom, chatting with several colleagues when one of them remarked that his wife had "nicked" him that morning for a new dress to attend the British Embassy garden party.

"I wish I could buy my wife a new dress," remarked Borah dolefully. "I'd like to be able to do that, but I just can't afford it and make ends meet."

"Bill," asked one of the group, "why haven't you practiced law on the side? It's perfectly proper. Many members of congress do it, and make good money too. I just heard the other day that Burt Wheeler got a handsome fee for defending a California racehorse owner."

"Yes, I know that's done," replied Borah. "I know of a former senator who was paid $40,000 in a case that actually amounted to little more than the use of his name. I could have had big fees, but while it's perfectly proper, I've always felt it just wasn't the right thing to do. My constituents elected me to represent them. They hired me and I've always taken the attitude that it was a full-time job."

"Anyway, it's too late for me to begin practicing law now. You can't teach an old dog new tricks, and Mrs. Borah will have to do without a new dress. There are other values in life besides money and dresses."

Note—Borah's $207,000 savings chiefly were from insurance policies which had accumulated and which presumably were left for Mrs. Borah's protection. The Senator never mentioned this to his wife and the nest-egg came as a complete surprise to her.

SMOOTHIE JOHN HANCOCK

During the Monopoly Committee hearings on investment banking, Robert Lehman, brother of New York's Governor, got appendicitis and was unable to testify regarding the Lehman Brothers banking firm. So John Hancock, another Lehman partner, testified in his place.

Hancock's testimony was a masterpiece of toning down the assertions and implications of SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson and committee counsel Nehemiah. After the session was over, Henderson shook hands and told Hancock:

"Well, if Martin Dies calls me as a witness, I'll get appendicitis and have you testify in my place."

COTTON STORAGE

When able little Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts took the floor last summer during the debate on the barter-cotton classification bill and urged approval of a provision to store 300,000 bales of government-owned cotton in New England, the house rose as one man and cheered him.

The amendment went through to the tune of one of the most cordial bi-partisan ovations accorded a member of congress. It is doubtful, however, if the popular Republican floor leader would have offered his proposal if he had known what was going to happen afterwards.

Today those 300,000 bales, three per cent of the total government holdings, are the center of the bitterest undercover brawl in the career of the Commodity Credit corporation, custodian of the cotton.

Cause of the melee is a deal which the corporation claims was made between James Joseph O'Donnell, New York and Boston cotton broker, and a group of New England warehouses for a brokerage commission on the lucrative storage fees. O'Donnell, who has powerful Washington influence and lobbied for the legislation, lined up a number of warehouses and appeared on the high road to getting a 10 per cent commission, when the Credit Corporation stepped into the picture and upset his apple-cart with two edicts:

(1) That any cotton moved to New England would be allocated to warehouses purely on a competitive basis; and (2) that no contract would be awarded to a warehouse that was under an agreement to pay anyone a fee on government business.

FIGHTING BACK

The Commodity Credit Corporation's action handicapped O'Donnell, but it didn't floor him. He returned to the fray, operating through friends on Capitol Hill.

One of the closest of these is South Carolina's Senator Cotton Ed Smith, who, although he has yet to make his appearance at this session of congress, sent a terse note to John D. Goodloe, vice president of the Commodity Corporation, instructing him to "please see to it that the 300,000 bales of cotton are moved out promptly to New England." In this communication Smith also referred to O'Donnell as "an old friend of mine."

Other congressional intimates also have been burning up the wires in behalf of O'Donnell, but so far the Commodity Credit Corporation has stood its ground.

MERRY GO-ROUND

U. S. Minister James Cromwell and Mrs. (Doris Duke) Cromwell made a hit in Canada by responding in French to questions put by French-speaking newsmen. . . . Governor Ernest Gruening says Alaska offers a perfect barometer of U. S. political sentiment. He proposes to substitute Alaska in the old slogan, "As Maine goes, so goes the nation." . . . Commissioner Edward C. Moran, Jr., insists that there are three admirals, not two, on the Maritime Commission—Admiral Land, Admiral Wiley and himself. For proof, he displays a certificate appointing him "Chief Admiral of the Great Navy of the State of Nebraska," with a picture of a prairie schooner for a ship of state. . . . Moran is a close friend of Senator Burke of Nebraska, once went from Maine to Nebraska to help Burke in his campaign. . . . When Attorney General Jackson made an "off the record" talk before members of the National Press Club, it really had stuff in it which could not be published. Such talks are usually pale and innocuous, needlessly protected by "off the record" rules—but not Jackson's.

Fling to rustling sheets of paper, Dr. W. M. Forst, an ingenious resident of Berlin, Germany, now comes to their aid with a device that he has named "Rostra Forsteta." It is a desk from which a lecture can be delivered with every appearance of spontaneity.

A manuscript is attached in the form of a consecutive roll to two cylinders hidden from the eyes of the audience. A lamp and a mirror which magnifies the script or print complete the equipment. When a lecturer looks in the lighted mirror he appears to be looking at the audience and to be extemporizing. He has only to remember to turn the cylinders. The type or script of course must be in reverse. Self-confidence is acquired from excellent legibility and illumination, and as the speaker does not have to bend over his manuscript his voice issues forth clearly. And what public speaker would not welcome a device which eliminates the possibility of dropping loose sheets of manuscript and the awful hush that ensues as he shakes his hands to retrieve them and tumble them back into order? What is needed still is some contraption that will suppress the after-dinner speakers when their wit stales or their portentiousness ceases to be impressive and becomes tiresome.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Neither John L. Lewis of the CIO nor William Green of the AFL can swing the vote of his labor organization this way or that way like so many potatoes in a bag.

This view is held by many observers in Washington. John L. claims to have swung the vote of his labor clans to Roosevelt in 1936. But everybody knows now that if he hadn't swung them that way they would have trumped him in the stampede.

At the convention in Columbus of the United Mine Workers, Lewis said President Roosevelt could not be elected to a third term, and left a haunting impression that he would oppose the President if he tried it. Immediately Presidents Dubinsky and Hillman of the two powerful and populous needler-trades organization indicated their belief that Lewis was speaking too fast and also through his hat. Hillman's organization is CIO; Dubinsky's used to be.

Best guess: Lewis has more certain influence over his Mine Workers than over the CIO in general. Because of that he can swing a mean pick in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, particularly in choosing House members. But he can't make the millions or more mine workers jump from the Roosevelt of 1936 to say, a Taft, McNutt or Garner of 1940, just by telling them to.

As to Mr. Green, he heads a house politically divided within itself, so he has cagily ducked any solid commitments, for or against anybody. Because Lewis at the moment is looking admiringly at Senator Wheeler of Montana, AFL sentiment likely will be against him—but not altogether. Daniel Tobin's teamsters and George M. Harrison's railway clerks like Wheeler's senatorial record.

On the other hand, William Hutcheson, president of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters, and Matthew Well, another AFL big stick, will be plugging for no Democrats whatever, since they are Republicans.

Farm Security: At this moment the bedeviled peasants in northern Rumania don't know who will harvest their next summer's crops, and it doesn't seem to matter to them much. Part of Germany's trade agreement with Rumania was to plant soy beans and other crops in Bessarabia at Nazi expense. Now they don't know whether to plant, for fear the Russians will get the crop. If the Allies move in they will get it. If nothing happens, Germany will get the crop.

One thing certain, the peasants will have little say as to where it goes, peace or war. It is already bargained away before ever the farmer sets plow to his land.

Remember that: Senator D. Worth Clark, aged 37, is senior senator from Idaho. John Thomas, who was a senator when Clark was fresh out of college, is junior senator at 66—because he has to start from scratch after an absence. . . . Less than a third of our gold is buried at Fort Knox, Ky., the rest being in Federal Reserve banks and mints at New York, Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco. There isn't a pound in the treasury at Washington. . . . And part of the gold almost certainly is Inca or Maya gold, snatched from these early Americans and siphoned for four centuries throughout the marts of trade.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

The Democratic National committee, meeting in Washington, selected Chicago for the next convention. It looked for a while as if it might have to decide to hold it at Hyde park some time between early August and late Roosevelt, being as how Franklin is so slow to make up his mind.

Quite a few cities had bids in for the convention. It may be just about the biggest and wildest show since Hell-Za-Poppin opened. I understand the Shuberts were willing to outbid any city and take the convention on tour. There is a story that a move is already on to have Olsen and Johnson go as delegates.

Ed Kelly of Chicago, boasting Franklin says it's just a case of a stake horse and a lot of selling platters. That ain't so. It's a lot easier to determine whether a stake horse is going to run again. Except, perhaps, Seabiscuit.

Harry Hopkins says retail sales in this country were up two and a half billion dollars last year over 1938. It was one of the best years American industry ever doubled.

This would be a great country industrially if the country could only believe it.

Caldwell Advocates 4 New Institutions

Milwaukee—(U)—Dr. Morris G. Caldwell, director of the state division of corrections, favors establishment of four new state institutions for special classes of criminals and delinquents.

He said in an interview here that as soon as the department of public welfare could obtain the necessary funds, it planned buildings for the female criminally insane, for mentally defective delinquents, for alcoholics who have committed crime and for sexual perverts.

Dr. Caldwell said that in addition to a camp to provide work for discharged prisoners until they find jobs, the department also planned a camp for probationers and parolees.

THE NATIONAL SECRET

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin is a candidate for reelection this year.

He will not run on the Republican ticket. He will not run on the Democratic ticket. He will run on his own Progressive ticket.

That's the word given to this column by Senator La Follette's headquarters. There is nothing whatever to the contrary.

Wyngaard yawns published by some political writers in the last few months that he is undecided. There never was a moment, his spokesmen assure, that the senior senator had any doubt about a ticket. There is only one ticket to choose, if he has any regard for principle and the stability and permanency of the party which his family worked for years to build strong and dominating in Wisconsin.

If a candidacy on the Progressive ticket in this year of Progressives' dubious strength and a presidential contest between the two other parties will be inviting a defeat, such a defeat would be preferable to deserting the party now and weakening it dangerously, and perhaps for all time.

That is LaFollette's sentiment, as conveyed by an authoritative representative.

PENSIONERS VS. PUPILS
A potential problem which has aroused much discussion in other states, but has thus far escaped general notice in Wisconsin although the roots of it have already been shown here, is touched upon by O. H. Plenzke, secretary and lobbyist for the Wisconsin Education association, in the current issue of the teachers' journal.

It is the subtle battle between the schools and the increasingly self-conscious groups of public welfare beneficiaries for the limited resources of today's public treasuries. Speaking of the teacher group interest in a state public revenue for school purposes, Plenzke observes: "Communications from many cities and districts point to an emergency in school finance. As local welfare demands increase, schools meet sharper competition for funds. Some places are in desperate circumstances."

Wisconsin has yet seen little actual contest on such a basis, but there was a significant hint of what may come in the state budget struggle in the 1939 legislature. It will be remembered that the legislature under hesitation applied the economy axe with the greatest force to the state teachers' colleges and universities, with consequent fee increases for students, curtailment in services, and pay cuts in those institutions. But the state budget for pensions was raised without question, and will inevitably continue to grow bigger.

The cynical have an easy explanation. Pensioners vote. Pupils in the public schools generally do not.

One of the matters of greatest importance to the dairy industry but one which has received little publicity is the experimentation which has gone on for several years on cheese packaging and merchandising. Private dairy corporations, the federal government, and lately the state department of agriculture under the leadership of Ralph E. Ammon, who has a deep faith in the efficacy of modern merchandising for a solution to the dairy distribution problem, have spent money in experiments. Now it appears that

SURGEONS ASTONISHED

I can hardly believe a person can board a plane in Newark this evening and have lunch in Beverly Hills tomorrow. But I received an electric shaver for Christmas and haven't used a razor since. I'll believe anything now.

The general agent of a railway writes that he had hernia on the left side in 1938. The surgeons of the railway company's hospital successfully operated on him, and he had no complications.

Then in 1938 he developed another hernia, on the right side, and also he might undergo the same surgical treatment in the railway hospital without expense he elected to have the ambulant treatment, for which he had to pay. A doctor in the agent's city gave him the injection treatment, in all eighteen injections. The result seemed perfect.

A few weeks ago the agent was carefully examined by the surgeons in the railway company hospital. "Our surgeons could hardly believe I had had this treatment," the agent reports, "and they stated there was no evidence of hernia now."

Reminds me of the incredible automatic windshield wiper. For years I held out against such a palpably inefficient gadget. Probably I was the last driver in four counties to have one on my chariot.

Then I heard crazy rumors of electric gadgets that work on the principle of a power lawn mower. I felt sorry for the poor folks who could take such tales seriously—until I saw old Barnacle Bill Turner, requisited in pace, began exhibiting a check, as smooth as a schoolgirl's, and assuring me that I could enjoy just as close a shave if I overcome my prejudice and try an electric shaver.

Ten or fifteen years ago it may have been good form for the eminent surgeons to express astonishment when they encountered people who had been successfully treated for hernia by the ambulant or injection method. About that time the myopic big shots who do the surgeons' thinking for them were busily engaged in distributing propaganda against the ambulant method—propaganda that was painfully childish in concept and character.

But, good gracious, the ambulant method is now used with uniform success everywhere, and it is recognized as the method of choice in many cases of hernia in workers who come under the jurisdiction of industrial commissions in most of the states or provinces—indeed, only where politics has a stranglehold on such things is the injection treatment still frowned on by such commissions. Only in the backward community can a surgeon still have the gall to be astonished at the cure of hernia by the modern method.

What do you think of the practice of taking a glass of wine every day for the benefit of health. . . . (Miss H. M.)

Ans.—I think a glass of milk every day will do more for health. One effect of a glass of wine is to paralyze temporarily the vasomotor system, so the arteries relax, the skin becomes flushed. Child-mind persons may imagine this is a flush of health or new blood. Don't be childish about it.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. # Finesse Is Not Always Mere Luck

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"That certainly was a lucky finesse," the kibitzer said enviously, probably thinking of his own bad record in the finessing department.

The expert who had played the hand smiled graciously and said nothing, but his discomfited opponents knew very well that luck hadn't entered into the matter. When the crucial moment had arrived, declarer had reconstructed the hands from the bidding and from the play up to that point. Then everything was clear to him, even though it looked like guesswork to the beginner who had watched it all.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 heart Double 4 hearts 5 clubs
Pass Pass Pass Pass

West opened the ace of hearts and, on seeing the dummy, speedily cashed the ace of spades. He continued with a low spade for lack of anything better to do. Declarer won with the king and drew four rounds of trumps. The queen and jack of spades were then cashed, declarer discarding a diamond on the last spade.

At this point declarer halted to make a decision on the play of the diamond suit. East had followed to four rounds of clubs and only two rounds of spades. He was marked as having started with at least five, and possibly six, hearts. It was essential that declarer determine which, since if he had started with five hearts he would have two diamonds, in which case no finesse would be necessary, and if he had started with six hearts he could have had only one diamond, in which case a finesse would be necessary unless his singleton were the queen.

Since it was impossible for declarer to count out the heart suit, he had to fall back on the clues given by the bidding. He first assumed that East had raised to four hearts with only a five card heart suit. In that case, the strongest hand he could possibly have held would be something like:

♠ 8 4 ♥ Q J 8 6 4 ♣ 5 ♦ 10 9 7 3

♠ 8 4 ♥ Q J 8 6 4 ♣ 5 ♦ 10 9 7 3

This would be a horrible triple raise, especially when vulnerable. Clearly, the triple raise could not have been based on high card strength, and must, therefore, have been based on ability to ruff diamonds.

Declarer, therefore, led a low diamond to the ace and finessed the jack of diamonds, thus making his contract.

Wife Should Make Effort to Keep Pace With Her Husband

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix — I feel that my husband is going ahead of me. He has achieved much success in business. Through the association this brings him and through travel he has acquired culture, while my care of the home and the children has kept me at a standstill. I love him dearly and do not want him to feel that his wife is a handicap to him. I am willing to do anything to keep step with him. How can I? MRS. D. H.

Dorothy Dix
The successful man also meets brilliant and beautiful and exquisitely gowned women, and when he contrasts the dowdy looking little hen on the home nest with those strutting peacocks he is likely to forget that it was to the hen's industrious scratching that he owes his start in life and much that he has achieved. So you will do well to have the courage to face the situation and see that if you are to keep up with your husband in the race you will have to speed up.

My advice to you is to sit down and have a heart-to-heart session with yourself and determine where you fall and what you most need to know. Perhaps you are uncertain of your grammar and pronunciation. Perhaps you were reared in a home where food was food and the only table etiquette consisted in dividing it out fairly among hungry children. Perhaps you have read little.

Don't be too proud or too vain to admit to yourself your shortcomings. Then go secretly to some educated and cultivated woman who has had social advantages that you have lacked and get her to give you lessons in table etiquette, in voice culture and to correct your grammar and pronunciation. In every community there are women who, as the phrase goes, "have seen better days," and who would be glad to earn money by taking such a pupil. If you could get some such lady to be your companion for even a few months you would find yourself perfectly at ease in any company. Then read, read! Read the new books, the magazines, the papers, so that you can discuss intelligently any question that comes up. This will not only save you from being a dummy in society, but make you an interesting companion to your husband at home.

Finally, and this is very important, improve your looks. Spend money in the beauty parlor. Go to some dressmaker and put yourself in her hands and let her pick out your clothes for you. Don't trust your own taste. Take the opinion of an expert. Do these things and

"Must A Brother Be Best Man?"

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary for the groom to choose a brother for best man? I mean, is it a rule that a brother should be given precedence over any one else?

Answer: It is a custom, rather than a rule, but so generally followed that when the groom chooses a friend instead of a brother it does give the impression that very little affection exists between the brothers. A great difference in age would of course modify this impression.

Presents For Twins
Dear Mrs. Post: A friend recently had twin sons. I waited 2 weeks or so and then brought them twin presents, spoons with their initials. But before I managed to send them, the one baby died. I still have the spoons because I don't know whether to send the second spoon or not. I certainly will have no use for it.

Answer: If I were you I would keep this spoon and sometime perhaps have the marking changed, and give it to another baby.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Table Rules of Importance." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Letters from young girls ask me to advise them how to act with boys. Now, I am not a lover editor or an Emily Post, but I shall endeavor to tell these young things how to be attractive to young men.

I should like to say to them, "Be beautiful in your friendships," and let it go at that, but such advice requires explaining.

All men are truly old-fashioned in their ideals, especially when their ideals concern women. An ideal, you know, is a standard of beauty, perfection or excellence. Although they may be far from perfect themselves, they want the women of their choice to be above reproach.

You may know that the boy you like steals kisses whenever and from whomever he can get them, but if he learns that you are too free with your kisses, his admiration takes a sudden drop and you may lose his attention altogether.

So if you wish to be attractive to boys you will play pretty constantly. You will look your best at all times. You will vie with all the attractive girls in your set. You will buy and wear your clothes with an eye to looking fresh and chic. You will be most careful about your personal grooming, and through being aware that you are meticulously groomed you will acquire poise.

Importance of Poise
Poise is important in your relationship with boys. And as you grow older poise will become increasingly important in your relationship with men. If you are well-groomed, poised and as neatly and smartly dressed as your circumstances permit, you will have personal pride. That personal pride will have a price—and the higher that price the more successful you will be in this old game of love! Instead of being in the position of yearning for a boy's attention, you will be in the position to take your choice of the boys you know. Thus you may be discriminating and will not have to curry the favor of every swain you meet!

Snobbishness Is Unforgivable
Now to be discriminating does not mean that you must be a snob. The girl who is a snob tells the world that she lacks poise and is very unsure of herself! At all times, in your relationship with boys, you should act disarmingly natural. Girl keeps herself beautiful, boy meets girl, girl is charming in her naturalness, boy likes girl and asks for a date! If girl approves of a boy she accepts his invitation and a friendship begins. If she does not approve of boy she refuses with poise in a charming, candid manner, and goes along living until she meets another boy of whom she does approve.

Any boy who is worth your friendship, quickly realizes how poised and meticulous you are. If your rating is high he will do everything in his power to please you. If your rating is low, he will take what he can get and leave you for the first girl who fits in with his old-fashioned ideals.

During a friendship try to learn what sports or hobby a boy likes and let him know what gives you enjoyment. True companionship is a grand basis for lasting love, so be naturally, but discriminatingly friendly with the boy you want to impress! And at all times be beautiful in personality as well as in appearance!

My leaflet "Secrets of Charm for the Growing Girl" may help you. If you request it, write me in care of the Post-Crescent and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Extroverts are free with their money while introverts have the savings accounts. A wise balance would consist of the friendly, sociable characteristics of the extrovert, bound up with the frugal, efficient traits of the introvert. Captains of industry usually need just such a balanced personality, for modern business has three distinct aspects, two of which are definitely introverted while the third is extroverted.

CASE P-174: Marvin J., aged 27, came to see me about vocational guidance.

"I've been a salesman ever since I got out of school," he commenced, "but my wife says I have no financial judgment."

"Money slips through my fingers, and we are always broke. I admit it. In fact, my folks have had to come to my rescue several times or we'd have been destitute."

"Dr. Crane, do you think sales work is my proper field? I think I'd do better if I were diagnosed and my talent set off against my shortcomings."

DIAGNOSIS:
It is rather typical of salesmen to be free with their money, for they are extroverts in personality. An extrovert is usually careless in money matters. Easy come, easy go, is fairly typical of such men. At the other extreme, however, we have the introvert, who is less sociable and more suspicious. He hangs on to his money. Carried to the nth degree we find him the hermit or miser for the Silas Marner personality is an extreme introvert.

Our business world has three distinct phases: namely, manufacturing, merchandising, and credit. It is unfortunate that very few people have had experience in all three vital aspects of business. Most of us are salaried workers in one or another of these fields, with limited perspectives.

Get Wide Business Experience
The more introverted personalities are usually linked up with the manufacturing and credit phases of business. Engineers and chemists, machinists and accountants, credit managers and bookkeepers—these when I was 16 years of age and my wife was 13. We have been married almost five years. My wife will not do her duty and the only thing I can do is to divorce her, but I do not want to do that because of the children. Is there no way that she can be compelled to stay at home?

DISGUSTED

Answer:
You poor little kids! What a price you are paying for a too-early marriage. Can't you see that nothing is the matter with your wife except that she is just a young girl, with a young girl's desire for pleasure? Why, she is only 18 now, and if you can only have a little patience with her in a year or two she will get tired of her parties and be ready to settle down. But I am sorry for you, you poor, care-burdened husband at 21! What a crime it is that the law allows children to wreck their lives by these premature marriages!

Look over the hoes and rake occasionally and grease the blades if they are growing rusty.

Put cereal that is to be reheated in a double boiler. Cover it with a thin layer of water and then put one lid on. Cook about 15 minutes, stirring thoroughly at least three times. Use a slotted spoon or fork to break up lumps.

Charcoal used for outdoor cooking should be red hot. To broil meats over it, place the grill about four inches above the charcoal. Put the meat on it, quickly searing on both sides to prevent losing the juice. Then turn and cook the meat until it is done.

If the crust of your custard pie tends to become soggy, try this: Lightly beat one egg white and carefully spread it over the crust. Bake the crust for five minutes in a moderate oven. Add the filling and bake the pie in the usual manner.

The best minicakes are baked in an oven so slowly that 15 to 20 minutes are required to brown them.

Mind; Body Suffer Without Periods of Rest, Silence

BY ANGELO PATRI

Few of us know the value of silence to ourselves and to others. There is healing in silence and every human mind is in need of that healing balm hourly and daily. And how seldom it is granted. The telephone and the doorbell, the mailman's shrill blast break the quiet of the house and send ripples of action, unrest and worry over the day.

The children arrive from school full of the day's doings. Doors bang, and thumps and bumps and loud voices resound through the house. The radio is on, piano practice begins, the dog barks, the telephone rings, the boy friend is on the wire. From the kitchen the noise of pots and pans, dishes, and running water, comes to swell the sound.

On the street noise is the natural condition. Every car has a horn which the driver uses to express his feelings. Judging by the sounds they need airing, Trucks rattle by. Bells jangle his bells. Scissors blows his horn or rings his bell. Ol' Cloes shouts his melancholy plaint, White Wings rattles his barrow, children shout and mothers scream. The din is incessant, normal, natural and quite characteristic of the city.

Noise Prevents Clear Thinking
But men are so constituted as to need silence. They need it in long stretches, in night lengths, dream lengths, any length, so long as it is long it will do. When they do not get it they suffer in body and in spirit. They cannot think so their acts are the acts of irritation and anger. They cannot think so their words are sharp, often without sense, working to their confusion. They cannot rest so their nerves are edgy, their step erratic, their work "as is." We are so surrounded by noise that it has become necessary to our discomfort. Some people actually cannot "rest" without their accustomed noises to keep them awake and restless.

This habit of restlessness affects the children. They scream when they might whisper to better effect. They move with all the commotion accompanying a truck. They are struck with amazement if they find themselves in stillness. Some of them even resent quiet. And yet they all need it. But many of us don't know we need it.

A Misguided Citizen
A mother and her small son were passing a hospital. Big signs commanded, "Quiet." The small one had a cap pistol, "big as real," and a good supply of caps, which he was using enthusiastically. A passing nurse pointed to the sign and shook her head.

"We're American citizens and we can make all the noise we like," said the proud mother.

"We can and we do, and little good it does us. Laws and signs and city ordinances are not going to help us until we learn that we can be American without being noisy. Good example in home and school will help greatly. A shouting teacher and a screaming mother do not tend toward quiet children. Gentleness, a still spirit, a considerate habit of life will go far toward teaching children the beauty of silence and the benefits of a still spirit."

Silence is a healing balm to the spirit of men. Seek it daily, practice it hourly and you spread peace and serenity about you. You will have greater influence for good than all the laws and all the signs piled together.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

LENTEN FOOD PROBLEMS
When the calendar turns to Ash Wednesday it brings an annual cooking problem to the homemaker. How to keep everyone well fed and satisfied on the good old stand-by — f i s h, c h e e s e, e g g s, and vegetables — really isn't as hard as it may seem. Even though there are no new foods to add variety to meals there are always ways new ways of treating old ones. So whether it's family dinners or guest suppers, there's no reason why lenten meals shouldn't be just as appealing and as exciting as any.

There's salmon, for example, long considered a dependable but an unspectacular member of the seafood family. Try this unusual salmon loaf.

Then there's tuna fish. Instead of serving it the usual way, creamed, why not combine it with hard cooked eggs, peas and a cheese sauce and then bake it.

Vegetables are always ready to do their share in making lenten meals interesting and corn entree is a good choice.

Salmon Loaf au Gratin
1 can salmon
1 cup bread or cracker crumbs
1 cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon onion juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
Drain the salmon, remove any bones and skin and flake. Put into a bowl together with the crumbs and cheese. Mix thoroughly and

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

Chapter 22
Sue's Temper
"Well, don't let's think of Cecily tonight, dear. We're having such a lovely evening."

"You may be," Bob's emphasis on the pronoun definitely accused her of lack of sympathy with him. "I can't get this confounded state of affairs out of my mind. Sue, why do we stay on here anyway? Let's sell the house and go East. They've been wanting me at the home office, you know. Let's shake the dust of this place off our shoes and go find us another house some where on Long Island."

Sue's heart gave a leap at this. Never to see Cecily again, never to hear that silvery voice! But a moment's thought always caused her to veto the move gently.

"You know as well as I do, Bob darling, she'd follow us. Her people are there, she's told everyone that she's going East when she gets tired of St. Joseph. Any day now she'll grow bored with us, she's bound to be! You know that."

Yes, Bob knew that, and after a certain amount of exasperated argument he always agreed with Sue. But not before he had done his best to hurt her, she thought! Oh, not before he had unceremoniously told those things which set her heart beating with actual pain.

"If you loved me the way I love you a hundred Cecily's wouldn't

GIRDLE-STYLE

BY ANNE ADAMS

A perfect cure for Spring fever is this very dainty, feminine dress, Anne Adams' Pattern 4387. The wide waist-girdle with its twin peaks cinches your midriff to smart fragility. The easy two-piece skirt has a saucy flare. And notice the soft, shirring at the shoulders and above the waist-band. Have long or short, gathered sleeves and use a plain or bright ribbon belt. As to the neck style, suit your own type. A prim little collar with a ribbon bow and lace edging looks demure. But perhaps you prefer the young square neck with flower and lace trim, or the round neck with its big, crisp bow. Both the collar and bow are gay made in contrast.

Pattern 4387 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and 2 yards ribbon.

You love me a thousand times more than I deserve. It's only—only that sometime—I feel that I don't really have you at all. Sue; that it's only your body, your affection I hold in my arms; that the real you is off somewhere I can't follow. It drives me mad—that feeling! He would have her crushed close to him now, holding her so tightly she could scarcely breathe.

Usually she poured out words of loving reassurance; but one sultry night in August when he had been more than ordinarily irritable, she said:

"Do you think you're taking the best way to find the real me, as you call it? I know this summer has been a trying time for you, Bob, but it's been difficult for me, too. I've done my best to make things easy for you. I've gone out with you when I'd a million times rather have stayed at home, and I've cancelled engagements at the last minute when it meant embarrassing apologies and explanations which didn't explain. After all, why should I have to be the one to soothe, and be tactful, and suit my life to yours? I'm not responsible for Cecily's being here!"

It was the first time she had allowed her temper, that quick flashing temper which had been the demon of her childhood before she had learned to control it, to burst into words. Bob's jaw sagged ludicrously.

"Sue—why, Sue!"

"You're behaving like a child, Bob!" she went on. "If you hadn't made it perfectly apparent to Cecily that she can bait you successfully, she'd have been tired of the game and gone East long ago. When are you going to grow up and meet her as she should be met; with a smoothly impervious surface to her references to a past which, according to you, is wholly nonexistent?"

Broken Enchantment
He burst into a shout of laughter.

"Heaven defend the right, hear the child! You're actually scolding me, Sue, you're ragging me like a regular fishwife! Go on! It's great to hear you, I say, did Allen have to put up with much of this sort of thing? No wonder he always comes to handle you with gloves."

She had herself in hand again and gave him smile for smile.

"You never believed me when I told you I had a temper. Now you

College Choir Will Present Australian, Ukrainian Songs

DEAN Carl J. Waterman, in his choice of program material for this season's concerts of the Lawrence College choir, has achieved a variety greater than ever before. Motets of recognized merit have been included in the first group, which is representative of composers of the fifteenth and sixteenth century, including Palestrina's "Tenebrae factae sunt," "Ascendit Deus" by Gallus, and Bach's "All breathing life, sing and praise ye."

Representative of modern compositions from the Russian, English, American and French schools are Arkhangelsky's "Hear My Prayer" and Tchesnokoff's "O Lord God," the chorus "We unto them" from Randall Thompson's sequence, "The Peaceable Kingdom" based on the prophecy of Isaiah: "Out of the Silence" by Cyril Jenkins and Arthur Warrell's "The Winged Souls," as well as the beautiful "Benedictus" by Paladilhe, which contains a duet for tenor and soprano solo voices.

Of quite different nature are the lighter, more popular folk songs and negro spirituals arranged by modern composers. Typical of the folk dances of the Ukrainian people is the song, "A Violin Is Singing in the Street," for among the most popular amusements of these people are the impromptu dances held on some convenient ground. Here the young people gather followed by their elders, and then comes the itinerant dance orchestra usually composed of a violin, tambourine, and double-bass. The sound of these instruments, full of gayety unrestrained, provokes an irresistible desire in everyone to join in the dance. Sorry indeed is the plight of a young girl who is hindered from taking part — as the story of "A Violin Is Singing in the Street" so vividly portrays. Alexander Koschetz, renowned director of the Ukrainian National chorus, has arranged the song.

Australian Tune

One of the very few folk songs to come out of Australia is "Waltzing Matilda," which is full of characteristic Australian colloquialisms. It is the story of a swagman, a man on tramp carrying his bundle, who camps by a water-hole, called a "billabong," in the dried-up bed of a river; as he waited for his billy-tea to boil, a sheep — a "jolly jumbuck" — came down to drink and was promptly stuffed into the swagman's "tucker bag." Before the swagman could get away, however, up rode the quatter, owner of the station, and three troopers who were ready to arrest the swagman. Rather than be taken alive, the guilty swagman jumped into the waterhole — and now his ghost may be heard as travelers pass by. Thomas Wood, an Englishman, has arranged this jolly tune for mixed chorus.

Hall Johnson, director of the famous Hall Johnson Negro choir of New York, has made the arrangement of the negro spiritual, "Maurice Myse, Mrs. E. A. Minton, Mrs. Edward Mueller, Mrs. William Mantle and Miss Emma Marquardt.

Large Audience Hears Talk by Aimee Zillmer

A CAPACITY crowd attended the first of a series of talks on "Friendship and Marriage" by Miss Aimee Zillmer, lecturer for the state board of health, Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. The Auxiliary to Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the lectures, entertained Miss Zillmer at dinner at the Candle Glow Tea room before the lecture.

After emphasizing the need for a course of this type for young girls and married women alike, Miss Zillmer commented on the problems of adolescent girls. Since where and how to meet boys seems to be the paramount problem for young girls these days, the speaker said she believed a co-educational school was better for girls than a segregated one. The more natural to everyday living the activities in which young people participate, such as school plays, committee meetings, church work and athletic games, the more natural their reaction to each other will be, she declared.

While discussing "blind dates," "pick-ups" and other methods of meeting the opposite sex, Miss Zillmer observed that most people marry from casual acquaintanceship and that their ages, on the average, are two years apart.

Let Interest be Known

She suggested that although it is a poor policy for women to be the aggressor, she should let her interest in her date be known to him. For girls who are in professions where there is a scarcity of marriageable men, she suggests that they arrange vacations at places where they will meet men.

Discussing the three types of love-making, physical, emotional and mental, Miss Zillmer said that courtship time is artificial emotionally and standards are higher than one could expect or want to maintain during marriage. Touching briefly on marriage, she said that although common interests are a fine basis for a happy marriage, children whose parents have diversified interests are lucky. She advised that every woman have a profession or trade as a safeguard against future contingencies, such as loss of income, death of a husband or incompatibility of marriage.

One Is Beloved BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

see for yourself what it's like. I won't say I'm sorry, Bob, because I meant every word I said; but I promise not to fly out at you like that again. . . .

The incident proved a salutary lesson to them both. Sue discovered to her astonishment that she had accomplished more in five minutes by this straight speaking than all her tact and soothing had done all summer. Bob knew a surprised respect for his slim young wife. After that he was careful to keep his grumblings about Cecily to himself.

But the first enchantment of the honeymoon had been broken for them both. Sue knew all her husband's faults now. She knew that he was a born procrastinator, congenitally incapable of doing today what he could possibly postpone until next week, next month. Trained by her father to courtous punctuality on all occasions, she chafed at Bob's ignoring of the clock.

Almost fanatically clean about himself, order did not exist for him. His bathroom was a welter of soapuds, wet towels, discarded garments and capless toothpaste when he had finished with it. He would stand in front of her dressing table, absently fingering her toilet articles, and five minutes later she would gaze ruefully at the wreck he had made of her brushes and bottles and silver jars. She spent money too freely, too, she considered. His tips left a wake of smiling good humor behind him, but Sue thought they were out of all proportion to the services rendered.

She spoke to him gently about this, about his other faults, and he looked positively frightened.

"Are you developing into a nagger, Sue?"

That brought her up standing. "Heavens, I hope not," she replied devoutly. She rubbed her cheek remorsefully against his arm. "I'm truly sorry, Bob! I'll not say another word, not if you make me lose my upstairs maids, and tip your caddy enough to buy himself a car!"

She kept that promise, consoling herself that Bob's faults were all surface ones, masculine ones which a woman who loved him— which the woman who loved him— she corrected herself— found it easy to forgive.

As for Bob, he was still teased by the belief that there were depths and heights in Sue which he had never glimpsed. Despite her tenderness, her real concern for him, he believed her still to be an emotionally unawakened girl. What haunted him was the idea, growing stronger and stronger as the summer neared its close, was that the day might come when Sue would meet the man who held the key to her locked heart.

He knew she was faithful to him with every breath she drew; he even believed that if such a man should come Sue would resist him with every fibre of her being; but more than anything in the world he longed to be that man himself, to enter into the splendor and the glory of knowing his wife's passionate and entire devotion.

"Sue! Sweet Sue, wake up!" It was not yet midnight, and Sue had barely dozed off when Bob's voice, and his gentle hand on her shoulder, awakened her.

"It's Allen, darling, calling from the hospital!"

She sat up in bed and pushed the dark curls from her forehead.

"Patsy?"

He nodded. "Allen says if you will head him to come. You do want to go, sweet?"

"Of course!" She flung back the light cover and began taking cloth-

Movie Land Sts People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—After mentally reviewing the movies of the past two years, it strikes me that some of New York's supercilious critics should be wearing very red faces. Those gentlemen have always ridiculed pictures as "emotional froth" and predicted that screen producers would never develop courage enough to tackle the serious, controversial problems dealt with on the stage. Never has a prophecy been more faulty.

Fidler

May Robson—well past seventy-five years of age—after doing six big pictures in less than twelve months—is treating herself to her first real vacation in years. She plans to remain away from the cameras for several weeks, but will stay at her home in Beverly Hills, and confine her trips to weekend jaunts. Miss Robson recently completed one of the featured roles in Warners' "Four Wives" a sequel to the unforgettable "Four Daughters."

Since most of those pictures have been well received by the public, Hollywood will follow on with others like them. In every studio, producers seem to be shaking off the fear that once chained them to trite, boy-meets-girl, romances.

The possibilities are exciting. With its unlimited scope of action, its revealing close-ups, and the talent-buying power of its millions, the once-despised screen stage effort seem ineffectual. If John and Jane Public continue to applaud, movies will become, within the next few years, an open forum for the best American thought.

PERSONAL OBSERVATIONS: There's no one who can express Hollywood fate: Two years ago, she more by a simple eyebrow-lift than Zorina. Signs of boredom: Bob Taylor's habit of finger-tip drumming on the table's top. Eleanor Powell's ability to perch on the man's back of a chair should convince anyone that dancing teaches pose. Style novelty: the tiny cash register Patricia Ellis wears in her lapel—punch it and it squeaks: "You're a swell kid!" No doubt about Jean Rogers' Swedish ancestry—she takes time out for ten cups of coffee daily. Don't say "betcha" to any one of the Marx Brothers unless you're prepared to back it up. Olympie Bradna is still my idea of the perfect ad for tennis shorts. A piled-high hair-do makes Kay Aldridge look years older.

Wonder if Ann Shirley is embarrassed by a strange quirk of Hollywood fate? Two years ago, she voted against Linda Darnell in the "Gateway to Hollywood" contest. Today, Linda's a star and John Payne, Ann's husband, is her leading man!

Wyman Buck, 87, Town Of Little Wolf, Dies

NEXT FRIDAY'S GAMES

Green Bay West at Oshkosh.
Manitowoc at Sheboygan Central.
Sheboygan North at Fond du Lac.

GETTING up full steam in the final phase of its schedule, the Fox River Valley conference will present two sets of games this week, with one round occurring tonight and the next planned for next Friday.

Oshkosh, still undefeated after eight conference games, and getting closer to the point where a title setup may be in order, meets Sheboygan North at Sheboygan tonight and Friday will appear on its own floor against Green Bay West.

In other battles tonight Fond du Lac will be at Green Bay East, West will travel to Manitowoc and Sheboygan Central will visit Appleton. Other Friday matches than the Oshkosh-West tilt send Appleton to Green Bay East, Manitowoc to Central and North to Fond du Lac.

Janssen Tops Scorers
Hugh Janssen, Central forward, is making a definite stab at the individual scoring record, held by Paul Fleischman of Fond du Lac at 125 points. To date Janssen has scored 85 points, and an average of seven per game henceforth would shoot him into an all-time mark.

Dick Bixby, Oshkosh veteran, has passed his teammate Arden Luker and holds second place with 60 points, five more than Luker. Johnny Batt, North, has dropped back to fourth place with 60 points.

Oshkosh continues to hold the conference offensive lead, with an average of 34.1 points per game. Following in order offensively are Central, with 29.8, Fond du Lac 24.8, West and Appleton, 24.3 each, East 19 and North 18.1.

West has forged to the front defensively, holding its rivals to an average of 22.6 points per game. Other defensive averages: Oshkosh 22.8, Fond du Lac 23, Central 24.1, East 24.7, Appleton 25.3, Manitowoc 27.7, and North 28.2.

Manitowoc and Central continue tied for first place in the Junior Varsity conference race, but if they get by tonight's games satisfactorily, they will have a chance to break the deadlock when the two crack reserve teams meet Friday night.

Billy Conn Certain He Can Defeat Joe Louis

BY GAYLE TALBOT
MIAMI BEACH—(AP)—Trying to talk Billy Conn out of the idea that he is destined to whip Joe Louis and return the heavyweight title to the white race is an absolute waste of time. The kid from Pittsburgh has made up his mind.

"He'll still be around when I'm ready for him," he insisted. "Sure, he's big. But he doesn't like to be hit, and just wait until I lay this right on his jaw."

I found the 175-pound champ working out in a sweaty gymnasium on the ocean front, starting to get ready for his title fight with Gus Lesnevich here on Feb. 28.

Having whipped Lesnevich once recently in New York, Bill didn't seem much interested in that phase of his future. He admitted casually that Gus could hit pretty hard, but the man he wanted to talk about was Joe Louis.

"You've seen how he looks when he gets hit," he persisted. "He looks like a big cry-baby, doesn't he? Well, he doesn't know anything after he gets one on the jaw."

That was more or less correct. I was forced to admit. But how this Louis man can hit. How did Billy think he would bear up under a onslaught of Louis rights and lefts?

"He would have a lot of trouble hitting me," said Conn, soberly. "That's part of this game—not to get hit. But I can take a punch. Fred Apostoli hit me a few, didn't he? I won't be scared of that guy when I get in the ring with him, like these other palookas have been."

Billy is starting training, as usual, up above 180 pounds. He'll shed it, though, in the coming weeks, and enter the ring against Lesnevich at probably no more than 173.

Gabby Hartnett Picks Cubs to Win Pennant

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK —(AP)—Ray Carlen wires Lou Nova's doctors have told him he can fight again this summer. Carlen is heading east to try to line up a Galento re-match, or a bout with the Pastor-Savold winner. . . Chuck Fenske who looks like this season's No. 1 miler, is a full second faster than he was last year. . . Close friends of Frank Thomas of Alabama say the contract the Brooklyn football Dodgers offered him called for three years at 20 G's per, plus stock in the club.

One Vote for Cubs
The Pawtucket (R. I.) Times quotes Gabby Hartnett as denying he ever conceded this year's pennant to the Cards and predicting the Cubs will win if the injury jinx stays away.

Uncle Sam will nick Benny McCoy for $11,000 of the $55,000 he'll get from the A's. . . Joe Lewis boxes today for the last time before the Godoy fight Friday night. . . Walter Hagen is practicing again and will play in the Florida tournaments and also at Augusta. . . The four forwards of the Moultrie (Ga.) girls' basketball team shot 17, 18, 19 and 20 points respectively in a game the other night.

Ah Ha!
Here's a queer wrinkle in the Atherton set-up on the coast. . . Coaches are prohibited from talking to high school stars at their schools or homes. . . But there's nothing in the rule to prevent an enthusiastic old grad from steering a sweet backfield prospect to the athletic building and whispering: "Third door to the left, kid."

Fight Tip
Between fights, Arturo Godoy who goes against Joe Louis Friday night, is a fisherman down in Chile. . . The last fisherman who had business with Louis was King Levinsky and you all know what happened to him.

Apastoli's Tumble Becomes Fight Game's No. 1 Mystery

BY SID FEDER
NEW YORK —(AP)—Fred Apostoli packed his bags today and made ready to pull out of town, leaving behind the wreckage of his fist career and the biggest question mark in a fight game since Dave Barry counted over Gene Tunney in double talk one September evening in Chicago.

Wherever the boys in the fight mob parked their hats, there were a million-and-one guesses as to what happened to make clean-living Freddy nose-dive, almost overnight, from one of the really fine fighters in ring history to what seems now a "washed-up" warrior, ever since his second fight with Billy Conn a year ago. There were many guesses—but no reasonable explanation.

So deep has the mystery become since his 12-round knockout by Melio Bettina last Friday — which apparently wrote him off his career — that one boxing writer even tried to draw a parallel between the ex-San Francisco bellhop and Lou Gehrig, whose iron man run with the New York Yankees was suddenly killed last spring by atrophic lateral sclerosis.

Larry White, the former world middleweight champion's manager, didn't agree with this. He disclosed today that while fearless Freddy was in a hospital over the week-end (he was taken there immediately after Friday's fight) he had been given a thorough going-over, and the physician had found him "O.K."

Apostoli, a moody, temperamental fellow, is quiet and shy. He has always left the "wine, women and song" stuff for the other guys. His only dissipation is an occasional glass of beer.

Yet, after skyrocketing to a world's championship with such "class" that many labelled him the best boxer, pound for pound, in the game, he suddenly, and for no apparent reason, didn't clock any more, although he took no really brutal beatings until lately.

White insisted he was going to have Fred quit the ring for good this time. Apostoli, on leaving the hospital yesterday recovered from gripe, demanded another chance in about six months.

Appleton, Waupaca Curlers Split Honors

Appleton and Waupaca curlers split in two matches staged Saturday on the Pierce park rink here. The Appleton team skipped by H. Mather and showing M. Naab, F. Wilson and H. Miller, defeated the Waupaca team skipped by J. Carey and showing Dr. A. C. Barry, F. Dahn and G. Roberts. The score was 12 to 8.

SET TOURNEY DATES

Chicago —(AP)—The national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament will be held March 27-31 at Loyola University. A field of 33 teams is expected in the field for the 17th annual classic, with the first invitation going to Central Catholic high school of Fort Wayne, Indiana state Catholic champion.

Patty Berg Remains Out of Golf Tourney

Palm Beach, Fla. —(AP)—A return shot at Patty Berg delayed for a while, national champion Betty Jameson moved into the first round of the Palm Beach women's golf tournament today a strong favorite to win.

Miss Jameson won the qualifying medal yesterday with a three-over-par 75 after Miss Berg decided to rest during this tournament. Patty defeated Miss Jameson last week in a 36-hole match in the Miami Biltmore tournament.

Depleted Badger Cage Squad Bows To Butler Quint

Wisconsin Shows Minus Schwartz, Strain and Two Reserves

MADISON —(AP)—Coach Harold Foster combed his depleted University of Wisconsin basketball squad thoroughly last night in a futile search for a winning combination as Butler University's crippled team scored a 50 to 46 victory over the Badgers before a crowd of about 4,500.

Foster used 11 players in an attempt to repair the loss suffered in the past week through ineligibility of two regulars, Bob Schwartz, forward, and Ted Strain, guard, and two reserves, Robert Nelson, forward, and Robert Sims, guard. He was moderately successful only until Walter Anderson, forward, and John Rundell, guard, both recently equipped with shatter-proof glasses, were ousted on fouls.

The Butler team, also handicapped by illness and ineligibility of regulars, spurred ahead in the last half, largely as a result of long range marksmanship by Jack Combs, guard, and Bill Schumacher, forward, both reserves.

Trail at Half, 28-20
Wisconsin trailed 28 to 20 at half-time, closed the gap midway in the last period at 35-35, and kept pace until the score hit 39-39. Butler's sharpshooters then pulled away to a 50-40 lead which the Badgers were whittling down when the game ended.

Three players, each with eight points, paced the Wisconsin attack. They were Gene Englund, center, Rundell and Charles Epperson, forward. Butler's high scorers were Byron Gunn, forward, and Combs, with totals of 11 and 13 points respectively.

The game ended Wisconsin's non-conference schedule for the season in which the Badgers won two and lost six contests. Eight conference games remain to be played, with the next clash scheduled with the University of Iowa at Iowa City Saturday.

They were Gene England, center, Rundell and Charles Epperson, forward. Butler's high scorers were Byron Gunn, forward, and Combs, with totals of 11 and 12 points.

THE Pirates won the first round championship of the National division of the Older Boys league at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday when they defeated the Phantoms, 32 to 17. The Pirates won five straight games.

The Phantoms were somewhat true to their name last night. They started like champions and then faded out of the picture and took a bad trimming. They led 6 to 4 at the quarter and 12 to 8 at the half. In the third period they started the fading act and trailed 20 to 14 when the stanza ended. Eastman led the Pirates scorers with 15 points and Williamson paced the Phantoms with 8 points.

Badgers mauled the Celtics, 40 to 17. The Badgers led 8 to 3 at the quarter, 16 to 5 at the half and 23 to 13 at the third quarter. Powers led the Badger scoring with 17 points which showed seven field goals and was followed by Powers with 14 points showing five goals. For the losers, Retzko got 10 points.

Potshots wilted in the second half and dropped a 42 to 31 decision to the Wildcats. The Potshots led 10 to 7 at the quarter and 16 to 9 at the half. The margin was only 22 to 20 at the third quarter and they faded out in the final stanza and took a trimming. The Wildcats played the entire game with only four boys but with Eugene Pegel getting 15 points and brother Evan led the team did well. For the Potshots, Johnson showed 10 points and Klein 8.

Marquette Working Against Zone Defense

MILWAUKEE — Coach Bill Chandler of Marquette university is drilling his basketball team on plays designed to circumvent the zone defense employed by the University of Chicago five, which opposes the Marquette here tomorrow night.

Chandler is more concerned than usual over this annual game, for the Maroons have lost only to DePaul in non-conference play although unsuccessful thus far in Big Ten games.

Chandler is still trying to find an adequate replacement for Bill Komich, star guard who recently was declared ineligible.

Oshkosh Points For Hammond

Hopes to Avenge Defeat Suffered Last Week-end in Pro Loop

Oshkosh — Just when the Oshkosh All Stars needed a win to remain in a tie with the Sheboygan Redskins for second place in the Western division of the National Basketball league, they were nosed out Sunday afternoon by the Hammond, Ind. Cicars at that city by a score of 37 to 35.

On Saturday evening the Hammond team will come here to attempt to accomplish the trick again and to even the four-game series with the Oshkosh team this year at two-alls. Saturday's game will be played at 8:30 o'clock at the Merrill school gym with a preliminary at 7:10 o'clock between the basketball teams of the police departments of Oshkosh and Madison.

Oshkosh is not yet out of the running to repeat as Western division champions, a title it has held the past two seasons, but it must win the majority of its seven remaining contests to come out on top or to get into the playoffs for the division and a chance to meet the Eastern division winner in a series with the league pennant at stake.

The Hammond team, admittedly has made the poorest showing in the league, but it has always been dangerous, losing several of its games by only a few points and in its wins has triumphed over Akron, O. Firestones, last year's champions, and the Chicago Bruins, present leaders of the Western division.

One Man Can't Win a Title—Joe McCarthy

Elizabeth, N. J. — Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion New York Yankees baseball team, told the United County Hot Stove league last night that "no one man can win a championship for a ball club."

McCarthy made the statement in answer to a prediction by Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tigers star, that the Boston Red Sox couldn't miss the pennant this year because of their sparkling outfielder, Ted Williams.

To prove his point, McCarthy cited several baseball greats who broke records on losing clubs and then added with a grin:

"But just the same, I certainly hope nothing happens to Joe DiMaggio."

Louis Godoy in Final Stages of Training

New York — Champion Joe Louis and Challenger Arturo Godoy of Chile went today into the final stages of their preparations for the 15-round heavyweight championship battle here Friday.

Louis was to box six rounds with sparring mates today and another six Wednesday. Godoy was to wind up his hard work today and exercise only lightly until the fight.

While speculation increased as to the probable outcome, cagey Joe Jacobs, who has managed two fighters that have had title tilts with Louis—Max Schmeling and Tony Galento—gave Godoy a chance to play the full 15 rounds.

Surprise! Appling Signs His Contract With the White Sox

Chicago — (AP) — Luke Appling, one of baseball's "old guard holdouts," has jumped the reservation—to the pleased amazement of the Chicago White Sox.

The veteran White Sox shortstop, who during nine years with the club had given officials many a moment of anxiety over annual contracts surprised vice-president Harry Grabner no end yesterday by sending in his signed 1940 document. In past seasons Appling always ranked as a prominent member of the holdout division, usually waiting until spring camp before signing on the dotted line.

Want Armstrong To Battle Aron

Illinois Fight Commission Makes Recommendation to N. B. A.

Chicago — (AP) — Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic commission, has recommended to the National Boxing association that Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, be forced to defend his title in a match with Milton Aron of Chicago.

In a telegram to the association's president, Col. Harvey Miller of Washington, Triner said Armstrong's six-months period to defend his title had expired Nov. 29 and pointed out that the N. B. A. does not recognize Armstrong's defense of his title against Pedro Montanez at New York Jan. 24 because the association did not list Montanez as a leading challenger.

Aron became a leading challenger for the 147-pound crown by knocking out Fritz Zivic of Pittsburgh here Dec. 27.

Triner also suggested that Lou Ambers, lightweight champion, whose six-months period of grace expires Feb. 22, be forced to defend his crown against Davey Day of Chicago.

Triner announced yesterday that the Illinois commission, which has been investigating charges by heavyweight Harry Thomas that he engaged in "fixed" fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento, will review its records of several hearings before making a final decision.

"Brick" Owens Author of Book on How to Umpire

BY EARL HILLIGAN
HICAGO — (AP) — Clarence "Brick" Owens, who can look back on 36 years of thumb jerking and "yer out" bellowing on sandlot, minor and major leagues in almost every section of the land, believes the men who never played organized baseball eventually make the best umpires.

It's been more than two years since Brick quit calling 'em and was retired on pension by the American league, in which he umpired 22 years. But he's never really been out of the game he served so long and this winter turned author to produce a neat little volume he thinks will help youngsters who have an idea they'd make big-league arbiters.

Brick's literary effort, entitled "Brick Owens' Instructions for umpires," was written expressly for beginners, amateurs and semi-pro arbiters, the author says. It's divided into 10 lessons and the entire volume contains not a single playing rule.

"I'm assuming young fellows who want to learn how to umpire know the rules," barked the husky Owens. "I simply think I've learned a few things that may help them in conduct on the field and off. Young fellows who've never played baseball have a fresh slant on the sport from an umpire's angle and if they're serious about improving themselves have the best chance of advancement."

A native of Chicago, Owens began umpiring on the sandlots here when he was 15. At 17 he had a regular job in the Northern league and from then on worked six more circuits, including a National league stretch in 1912, before going to the American league in 1916.

Construction of Grandstand Will Begin in Few Days

Walter Gmeiner, Appleton Builder, to Supervise Construction

The board of public works Monday voted to start construction on the proposed Spencer field grandstand as soon as WPA men are available.

Walter Gmeiner, Appleton contractor, was employed by the city to supervise construction under the city engineer. A part of Gmeiner's salary will be paid directly by the city and the remainder will come out of project funds.

Afred Wiekeberg, city engineer, said this morning he expected it would take a few days to transfer men from active WPA projects to the new one at Spencer field. He said the work will start as soon as possible.

The works board also authorized the engineer to hire technical and skilled laborers if the type of laborer desired is not certified by WPA. Those wages would be paid directly by the city.

Officials expect the grandstand will be completed in time to be used for baseball next summer. Last year lights were installed and the surface of the field was improved. The grandstand will cost about $27,000 under a WPA project with the city furnishing about $10,000.

Hear Arguments In $10,000 Suit

George Moritz, Jr., Appleton, Plaintiff in Damage Action

Closing arguments were being heard today in municipal court in the $10,000 damage suit of George Moritz, Jr., 1405 W. Prospect avenue, against Robert Zwicker, 609 S. Walnut street, and the Ceina Mutual Casualty company.

Paul Grignon, 709 W. Third street, James Davis, route 2, Appleton, and the Continental Casualty company were involved in the case as impleaded defendants when it opened before Judge Thomas H. Ryan yesterday, but he has granted a motion directing a verdict in favor of the impleaded defendants.

The suit is an outgrowth of an accident on Winnebago County Trunk P. north of Menasha May 5, 1939. Moritz was riding in a car driven by Davis. Grignon passed the Davis machine which shortly after was involved in an accident with a car driven by Zwicker, according to the complaint. The cars were going north and the Davis car, in which Moritz was riding, was damaged about the rear end. The Davis car then swerved and was in a collision involving a car being driven south by Harvey Schwartz.

Jurors are John Kasperek, John DeWint, Harry Smith, Eugene Beck, Peter J. Nabbefeld, Earl Kirk, Clarence Wassman, Paul Cary, Jr., Herman Schroeder, Otto Sternagel, Franklin Ecke and Ernest Bruggeman.

VITAMIN B
One day I saw a young woman look quickly through a book, and give a little jump as she caught sight of a picture of two white rats. I told her not to worry, since the rats couldn't get out of the book to harm her in any way!

The fact is that white rats have done the human race a great deal of good. They have been used by scientists to make tests, and the tests have done ever so much to give us the knowledge we have today about food. Thanks to our growing knowledge of food and vitamins, people are being saved from trouble and disease.

White rats have been used in making important tests with Vitamin B, but chickens gave the world the first hint about this vitamin.

In 1897 a Dutch doctor in Java had some chickens which grew sick, and he wondered what the trouble was. So he looked into the chickens' food supply, which was made up largely of rice left over from the table.

As the doctor knew, the rice was "polished"—that is, the coatings had been taken from the grains. "What will happen," he wondered, "if I feed these chickens coatings from the rice grains?"

He did that very thing, and the chickens soon were well and healthy once more. Although he did not know it, this Dutchman—Dr. Eijkman—had found a good way to obtain Vitamin B. Since that time, other workers have learned a great deal about Vitamin B.

Human beings suffer from the same kind of disease as troubled chickens. It is known as "beriberi" and it has cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of people in China and other parts of the Orient. If those people had eaten rice which had not been polished, there is little doubt that each would have lived years longer.

Polished rice is not harmful—it has good food value—but here is the point: People living mainly on rice must obtain Vitamin B in some other way if they do not eat the coatings on the grains.

Here is a list of some of the foods with a good supply of Vitamin B:

Ham, bacon, chicken, beef, eggs, whole wheat bread, yellow corn meal, pearl barley, prunes, peanuts, walnuts, turnip greens, figs, yeast, squash, green peas, chard, cauliflower, kidney beans, yellow soy beans, and green asparagus.

If you have kept the list of Vitamin A foods from yesterday, you will notice some items which are the same, some which are different. For good health, people need many vitamins, not just one.

Understanding, Help Are Seen as Solution For World's Problems

New London—An understanding of other nations' problems and a sincere effort to help solve them were offered by the Rev. Harold P. Reisdorf as a solution to the world's war troubles in a brief talk before the Rotary club at the Elwood hotel Monday noon.

Each aggressive nation has its problem of expansion and development and is attempting to relieve it by force. The pastor declared it should be our duty to try to understand these problems and help the world find an enduring peace. He said in the speaker's opinion the peoples of the world will always remain the same and there can be no lasting peace founded on war.

Nearly 400 Present At Fish Game Club Hard Time Gathering

Clintonville—Nearly 400 persons attended the hard time and old time dance given by the fish and game club Saturday evening at the Clintonville armory. Prizes for the best old-time costumes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Clement Tyrrell and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Essman, while the prizes for hard time costumes went to Robert Anderson and Jack Gould.

Proceeds earned will be used in conservation work in this community. The club is now actively engaged in its winter bird-feeding program. A new type feeder has been made from old milk cans and many of these have been placed in the wooded areas. The containers are filled with grain and grit at regular intervals. Last winter the local club maintained 55 feeding stations and used three and one-half tons of feed. This was partly furnished by the state conservation department.

During the winter months the fish and game club is also conducting a live rabbit trapping contest to rid the city of the animals, which destroy trees and bushes in the gardens. About 12 rabbits have been taken to nearby wooded sections and released there. Prizes will be awarded to the youngsters catching the most rabbits in their home constructed traps.

Clapper Says Youth Congress Should Clean Out Communists

Washington—The American Youth Congress would be deserving of a great deal more sympathy, and would probably win more of it, if its Communist elements were cleaned out.

Youth has special problems in this country and it needs a strong organization through which it can speak up and win a hearing. But so long as Communist groups have a hand in the main youth organization, it stands before the public with two strikes on it.

Mrs. Roosevelt has made a brave defense of this group. When it holds its general conference here Feb. 11 on "civil liberties and citizenship" she is expected to speak. The youth group will be received at the White House, it is understood, and probably President Roosevelt will meet with it. Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth administration, will address the conference. Representatives of outside political viewpoints have been invited to be present. John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, has declined to send a representative on the ground that the American Youth Congress has failed to expel its communistic elements.

There is raised here a most fundamental question. And while appreciating the broadminded impulses which lead Mrs. Roosevelt and others in this administration to accept the youth congress as is, I side with the Republican chairman.

We have enough to do in this country without complicating our activities with Communists who are looking out first for the interests of Soviet Russia and who are its champions through thick and thin, even when it violates democratic practices as ruthlessly as does Hitler.

In the extremely moderate and balanced report recently made by the Dies committee—and not to be confused with the bogey-man scare stuff which the committee sponsored in some of its earlier brainstorms—an analysis is made of the American Youth Congress. It is found to be a central organization, a federation, in which are affiliated some Communist front organizations. The vast majority of those represented in the membership of the congress are acquitted of any snuggling up to communism and nazism and are put down as ordinary American-minded youth loyal to our basic methods.

Young Communist League Under Moscow Influence

But in the congress is the Young Communist league, which is under the influence of Moscow. It includes the American student union, which thinks Stalin can do no wrong and which is classed as a Communist front organization. The Dies committee reports—and this is a temperate document—that the Communist minority in the youth congress exercises an influence out of all proportion to its numbers. They are effective workers.

The Dies committee makes this entirely reasonable observation: "The committee is unable to see during the lenten season. The schedule follows: Feb. 14—Congregational church, the sermon by the Rev. E. W. Marks; Feb. 21—Methodist church, the Rev. W. E. Schilling; Feb. 28—Evangelical church, the Rev. W. H. Wiese; Mar. 6—Congregational church, the Rev. W. H. Wiese; Mar. 13—Methodist church, the Rev. E. W. Marks.

The lenten season will be concluded on Good Friday with a union service at 1:30 in the afternoon at Salem Evangelical church. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. W. E. Schilling, pastor of the Congregational church.

Lenten services will begin this week at the Lutheran churches of this city. At St. Martin church the English services will take place each Wednesday evening and the German at 7:30 Friday evenings. At the new Christus church, services in the English language will begin at 7:45 each Wednesday evening, and in the German at 7:45 each Thursday evening.

Tenth Anniversary
The tenth anniversary of the organization of the Thrift club was celebrated Sunday evening by members and their husbands at the Parkview hotel. A 7 o'clock dinner was served, after which seven tables of five hundred were played. Couples receiving high honors were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Knapp and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hedtke. Prizes were also awarded at each table.

The Thrift club was organized in 1930 by women of St. Martin Lutheran church for the purpose of making contributions to the church at each meeting. Their afternoon gatherings are held on the last Thursday of each month. Besides these, the club meets on the second Tuesday evening of each month when the husbands are guests. There are fourteen members in the club.

Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ella French at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Meyer, were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dupuis of Wausau, Louis Buehring, Mrs. Ella Montgomery and Mrs. J. Favel of Oshkosh.

Mrs. A. E. Klingert returned Sunday from Madison, where she had spent several days at the home of her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Korb and son Tommy and Mrs. Richard Korb went to Milwaukee Sunday, where the latter will visit for several weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Dietrich, and family.

The circulation department of the Appleton Post-Crescent is represented in Clintonville by James Bohr, 46 Main street. Orders for subscriptions may be left with him. Subscribers missed by carriers should call Mr. Bohr telephone 5871, before 7 p. m.

Former Resident of Manawa Dies in West

New London—Mrs. Bruno Jurgensohn, 72, a former resident of Manawa, died at her home at Seattle, Wash., Friday evening after several months' illness.

Born at Carlton Place, Canada, Aug. 21, 1868, Joan McNelly was married in 1889 to Dr. Bruno Jurgensohn and lived at Manawa from 1890 to 1905. She wrote several books of children's poems and while at Seattle wrote children's articles for the newspapers. She was a member of the Congregational church and the Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Eva Jurgensohn at Seattle and Mrs. R. M. McCroskey at Evanston, Ill.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Seattle Sunday afternoon. The body will be brought to the Cline and Learman Funeral home here Wednesday evening and burial will take place at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at Manawa. The Rev. H. P. Reisdorf of the Congregational church will conduct a short service at the grave.

Clapper Says Youth Congress Should Clean Out Communists

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—The American Youth Congress would be deserving of a great deal more sympathy, and would probably win more of it, if its Communist elements were cleaned out.

Youth has special problems in this country and it needs a strong organization through which it can speak up and win a hearing. But so long as Communist groups have a hand in the main youth organization, it stands before the public with two strikes on it.

Mrs. Roosevelt has made a brave defense of this group. When it holds its general conference here Feb. 11 on "civil liberties and citizenship" she is expected to speak. The youth group will be received at the White House, it is understood, and probably President Roosevelt will meet with it. Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth administration, will address the conference. Representatives of outside political viewpoints have been invited to be present. John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, has declined to send a representative on the ground that the American Youth Congress has failed to expel its communistic elements.

There is raised here a most fundamental question. And while appreciating the broadminded impulses which lead Mrs. Roosevelt and others in this administration to accept the youth congress as is, I side with the Republican chairman.

We have enough to do in this country without complicating our activities with Communists who are looking out first for the interests of Soviet Russia and who are its champions through thick and thin, even when it violates democratic practices as ruthlessly as does Hitler.

In the extremely moderate and balanced report recently made by the Dies committee—and not to be confused with the bogey-man scare stuff which the committee sponsored in some of its earlier brainstorms—an analysis is made of the American Youth Congress. It is found to be a central organization, a federation, in which are affiliated some Communist front organizations. The vast majority of those represented in the membership of the congress are acquitted of any snuggling up to communism and nazism and are put down as ordinary American-minded youth loyal to our basic methods.

Young Communist League Under Moscow Influence

But in the congress is the Young Communist league, which is under the influence of Moscow. It includes the American student union, which thinks Stalin can do no wrong and which is classed as a Communist front organization. The Dies committee reports—and this is a temperate document—that the Communist minority in the youth congress exercises an influence out of all proportion to its numbers. They are effective workers.

The Dies committee makes this entirely reasonable observation: "The committee is unable to see how it is possible for this or any other organization of American young people claiming to preserve and vitalize the American institutions and life of America to expect to promote that work by including within its ranks those who do not believe in democracy, but in a contrary philosophy of life and form of government."

No 2-Way Tolerance In Dealing With Reds

Although at its meeting last July the American Youth Congress unanimously adopted a resolution voicing opposition to all forms of dictatorship whether Communist, Nazi, Fascist or any other type, it did vote down a resolution to expel Communists. That refusal is defended as an act of tolerance. There is no two-way tolerance in dealing with Communists. It takes only one quick look around Russia to see that. The Communist game is to break down democracy and substitute dictatorship. Those in America who are still loyal to the Communist regime swallow Stalin's ruthless dictatorship, his deal with the nazis, his aggression against Finland. They defend him, even while attacking Hitler for the same crimes.

One cannot feel nervous about the solid foundations of our democracy if he will take the trouble to travel about our country. I have come back from a month out in America and it has been a most reassuring experience. There is much work for us to do. But I believe there is a firm determination everywhere and among all groups to do it in our own way, and in accordance with our traditional principles.

It isn't that a knot of Communists in the American Youth congress is going to do any real damage to America. They can only damage the youth who through this organization are trying to obtain a hearing.

Leon Bodoh Wins First In Free Throw Contest

New London—Leon Bodoh won first place in the boys intramural Class B basketball free throw contest at Washington High school when a 3-way tie was tossed off Friday afternoon. Elder Schoenrock placed second and Francis Quaintance finished third.

all his life on a farm near Hortonville. He was a bachelor and lived with his brother, James and unmarried sister, Katherine. He is survived by only one other sister Mrs. M. E. Murray of Chicago. The body will be at the Nesbitt residence until the time of the funeral.

After the match the visitors won four games against two other New London teams enlisting other players. Participating were H. H. Helms, A. A. Vorba, Tom Fitzgerald, Phil Court, Elmer Helgeson, Vern Blomley, Gilbert Wernberg.

New London Will Play Friday for Chance at Title

Win Over Shawano Would Create 3-Cornered Fight For Championship

New London—If New London High school cagers can stop the Shawano Indians on their home floor here Friday night, the western division of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference will be wide open for a bitter 3-cornered fight with New London in the thick of it. If the Red and White win they will be tied with Shawano for second and Neenah will stand alone again at the top. Neenah will meet Shawano on the latter's floor next Tuesday and Shawano and New London each have yet to tangle with the troublesome Kaws at Kaukauna.

School officials are expecting another sell-out of seating space at Friday night's classic for the Indians always provide excitement. Reserved seats have been set aside and a brisk sale at the high school office indicates that they'll all be taken before the game starts.

Bob Seering, sophomore reserve on the first string, will be out of play the rest of the season as the result of an injury he sustained to his ankle while ski jumping at Iola Saturday. Seering is secretary of the New London Junior Ski club and is one of two sophomores on the "A" squad. John Sullivan is the other.

Light Practice
Coach Harold Isaacson plans to take practice easy this week to store up reserve strength for Friday's battle. A light scrimmage was held against the Weyauwega High school squad during practice at the gym here this afternoon.

The locals haven't lost a game this season on their home floor and will be up against high-scoring Billy Reed and a well balanced team of court acers. The Bees will play a preliminary at 7 o'clock with the main tilt scheduled for 8:15.

"I Save on Everything" ..at Wards"

"Let me tell you what happened to me..."

"See this lovely end table? I shopped all over town for it! Honestly, I ran around so much, I was worn out! Then, I found exactly what I wanted at Wards! Not only that, but the salesman showed me a beautiful lamp to go with it in the big Ward catalog. And, the price!... believe me, it was a lot less than the other stores asked for tables that weren't as nice!

"That's why I go to Wards for everything now! If I don't see what I want on the counters, it's sure to be in the Ward catalog.

"And, the values do my budget good! I can buy at catalog prices without even paying letter-postage or money-order fees! I just give my order to the Catalog Order girl and the goods are sent to my house. Or, I can save extra by calling for them at the store.

"And the best of it is that I can put everything on my Monthly Payment account and pay a little every month!"
